Island-Sharing Nations Charge Towns Shelled

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — President Juan Bosch's government accused Haiti of shelling the Dominican border town of Dajabon Monday. The official Dominican radio said Bosch threatened a retaliatory air raid on Haitian President Francois Duvalier's palace in Port au Prince.

The Duvalier regime denied the Dominican charges and in turn accused Dominican forces of having fired on the Haitian border town of Quanamintin. Haiti said it would take its case to the Organization of American States. The Dominican government said it may, too.

No OAS Session Called

However, OAS council President Gantalo Facio said in Washington that no emergency meeting would be held immediately to deal with the renewed tension on the Caribbean island of Hispaniola which the Dominican Republic and Haiti share.

Facio also said Dominican Foreign Minister Hector Garvia Godoy assured him in a telephone conversation from Santo Domingo that the Bosch government had not served an ultimatum on Duvalier's regime. Facio did not explain why the Dominican radio reported an ultimatum.

The radio said Bosch threatened to order Dominican planes to bomb Duvalier's palace unless Haiti met three conditions: An immediate cease-fire; punishment of the guilty, beginning with Duvalier himself; and compensation for damages. The Dominican air force was reported to have dropped leaflets on Haiti, warning Haitians to stay away from the Duvalier palace area.

No Casualties Reported

There was no immediate indication of any border firing after the ultimatum was reported, nor were there any reports of casualties on either side.

Godoy summoned all heads of diplomatic missions in Santo Domingo to the foreign ministry and told them the 8,000 inhabitants of Dajabon had fled in panic when Haitian forces opened fire with .50 caliber machine guns on that town 100 miles northwest of Santo Domingo.

Godoy said a special Dominican army commission was dispatched to investigate the situation at Dajabon and its findings would determine whether the Bosch government would complain to the OAS.

Negro Student Is Suspended For Toting Gun

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—Negro student Cleve McDowell was suspended by the University of Mississippi Monday after being arrested on a charge of carrying a pistol.

Sheriff Joe Ford said he found the gun in McDowell's inside coat pocket. He said McDowell agreed the gun was his but refused any other statement.

McDowell, 21, of Drew, was jailed on a charge of carrying a concealed deadly weapon.

L.L. Love, dean of students, said the suspension would remain in effect pending a school hearing on the incident.

The hearing may be held Tuesday, Love said, and McDowell would be given an opportunity to attend, even if it were still in jail.

Nixon Warns Of Treaty's Implications

Ex-Veeep Forecasts Cold War's Most Dangerous Period

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon issued a warning on the implications of the nuclear test-ban treaty Monday as he moved to reassume a major role in shaping policies of the Republican party.

In what he labeled the first of a series of policy speeches, Nixon said the treaty must be ratified but he saw it as marking the beginning of the "most dangerous period in the cold war."

Nixon, disclaiming any ambition for next year's GOP presidential nomination or for the role of presidential kingmaker, later told the Associated Press that he had decided to speak out on a wide array of domestic and foreign policy issues because he thought the Republican position "was not getting through completely."

No Alternative To Approval

In his first major speech since losing his bid for the governorship of California and since becoming a resident of New York state, the former vice president concentrated primarily on the test-ban treaty, which is expected to be approved by the Senate Tuesday.

He said the Senate had no alternative but to endorse the treaty. Rejection, he said, would make it appear that the United States was blocking the road to peace.

Nixon said he disagreed both with those who view the ban as the beginning of a "new era" in peaceful U.S.-Soviet relations and with those who view the treaty as militarily disastrous for the nation.

"I believe the ban will be followed by the launching of a stepped-up Soviet offensive in the Free World to extend communism without war," he declared.

Khush Prestige Gain Seen

In a speech before 700 persons at the 22nd annual convention of the Mutual (insurance) Agents Association of New York, the former vice president elaborated on remarks he had made to newsmen earlier. Later, he held a news conference.

Nixon, expressing reservations about negotiating the test-ban treaty in Moscow, said that So-called the gun was spotted when it fell from McDowell's pocket.

As a consequence, he said, Khushchev had gained in prestige at home and abroad.

The United States, Nixon warned, should resist any pressures for further agreements with the Russians that, "in the name of peace, may sell other people down the river." He referred specifically to persons residing in Soviet satellite nations of Eastern Europe.

Storm Hampers Plane Search

NEW YORK (UPI) — Search vessels, already hampered by a huge Atlantic storm in the area where a missing military plane might have gone down, raced against time Monday as Hurricane Debra moved slowly toward them.

The weather bureau reported Debra about 800 miles south of the search area moving north-northeastward about 11 miles an hour. It was expected to pick up forward speed later.

The Coast Guard said the hurricane eventually would cross the path of the search which extends in an area about 75 miles wide from the U.S. mainland to the Azores.

An Atlantic low pressure area whipped up waves 15-20 feet high with heavy rains and winds up to 60 miles per hour in an area described by the Coast Guard as the "best possibility" for finding the plane or the 10 men aboard. The storm is centered about 900 miles east of Cape May, N.J. The plane took off early Sunday from Dover Air Force Base, Del., en route to Lajes, Azores.

Sugar Price Hiked Sharply By Refiner

NEW YORK (UPI)—The sharp increase in raw sugar prices Monday triggered a rise in the price for refined sugar.

Sugar dealers said they expect other refiners to follow the lead of National.

JFK Confident Ala. Steel City Can End Crisis

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy held three key meetings Monday on the Birmingham racial crisis and expressed confidence that the problems that have gripped the city can be settled at the local level.

He issued a statement after conferring with five white Birmingham civic leaders, six prominent clergymen from the troubled community and the two men he named as his special team to try to work for peace in the Alabama steel center.

The stress on solving the explosive racial crisis locally was stressed by the civic delegation who told the Chief Executive that efforts by the civic delegation to the Chief Executive that efforts at the community level could work if there was a brief "breather" from outside interference and agitation.

The latter two — former Army Secretary Kenneth C. Royall and ex-West Point coach Earl Blaik — will leave for Birmingham Tuesday to try to open negotiations between white and Negroes.

Summarizing the three meetings, Kennedy said in a statement: "All of the persons at these meetings expressed a desire to meet Birmingham's problems within the city itself, and to make progress to restore the confidence of the citizens of Birmingham, both Negroes and whites."

He reported the two Birmingham delegations hoped Royall and Blaik will be able to "contribute to easing the situation."

Kennedy's statement said Royall and Blaik will offer whatever assistance they can in restoring good communications between Birmingham's white and Negro communities and in easing the existing tensions.

The President recalled he had received assurances from Negro leaders last week that they would welcome any steps in that direction.

"We have now had expression from all the major elements in the city that this committee (Royall and Blaik) will be welcome and I ask everyone to cooperate with them," Kennedy said.

"All the groups have expressed confidence that these matters can be settled on a local level," he said. "That is also my strong belief. I am hopeful that all groups will work vigorously to that end in the coming days."

U.S. Copter Rescues Kidnaped Teachers

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Two British school teachers, sunbathing on a beach south of Saigon, South Viet Nam, were kidnaped by a Communist Viet Cong guerrilla Sunday. An hour later they were rescued by a U.S. Army search helicopter.

James Duncan Kinnaird was shot in the leg trying to escape from the guerrillas, but a British spokesman said he was not in serious condition. The other Britisher, Alan Darby, was not injured.

Eight Men Indicted For Impeding Ala. School Integration

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Warner, Dutton, Stanley, Carmack and Lewandowski impeded the administration of justice by trying to "strike, beat, assault, threaten, abuse and revile" Birmingham police who were there to prevent interference with the court order.

As the defendants were arrested, U.S. Dist. Judge Clarence W. Allgood decried "attempts to influence and intimidate" the grand jurors and court.

Named in the indictments were: Edward R. Fields, 30, Birmingham, information director and leader of the National States Rights party; Gerald G. Dutton, 22, Birmingham; Jesse B. Stoner, Atlanta attorney for the party; James K. Warner, 24, Birmingham; Ralph Lewandowski, 18, Chicago; David A. Stanley, 19, Toronto; Canada; Barney M. Carmack Jr., 29, Birmingham; and Jack Cash, 56, Birmingham.

Fields, Dutton, Carmack, Cash and Lewandowski were arraigned and placed under $2,500 bond. Cash was the only one to make bond immediately.

U.S. Atty. Macon L. Weaver said Warner and Stoner planned to turn themselves in Wednesday. Stanley was reported in Canada.

The indictments stemmed from incidents which occurred when three Birmingham schools were desegregated beginning Sept. 4. Pickets appeared at West End High School, Ramsay High School and Graymont Elementary School.

All of the men but Cash were charged with conspiring to interfere with justice, and with attempting "by threats and force, to obstruct, impede and interfere" with the court orders. The indictment listed 26 overt acts of alleged interferences.

In another count, the jury charges that Fields, Warner, Dutton, Stanley, Carmack and Lewandowski "did, by threats and force, wilfully prevent, obstruct, impede and interfere" with the desegregation court order through centers of Communist propaganda.

15,000 Troops Will Fly To Europe In "Big Lift"

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States will flex its counter-punching muscles with a massive training airlift of 15,000 troops to Europe late next month, the Defense Department said Monday.

The troops, mostly from the 2nd Armored Division, Ft. Hood, Tex., will be flown to bases in France and Germany over a three-day period. On arrival they will pick up heavy equipment stored there since the 1961 Berlin crisis then join with the 3rd Armored Division, already in Germany, in week-long North Atlantic Treaty Organization field exercises.

Dubbed "Big Lift," the exercise was described by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara as "the largest transoceanic Army-Air Force deployment ever to be made by air."

Way Cleared For Test Ban Ratification

Goldwater's Key Proposal Rejected By 75 To 17 Margin

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate smashed Sen. Barry Goldwater's Cuban reservation 75 to 17 Monday and went on to smother all other proposed amendments to the resolution for ratifying the limited nuclear test ban treaty.

Defeat of the Arizona Republican's proposal and the others was a solid victory for the Democratic and Republican leadership, which teamed up to push the resolution through unchanged.

The lopsided margin of the voting indicated that the pact will easily win ratification Tuesday, even though Monday's balloting was not strictly on a lineup of those for or against the pact. Ratification will take a two-thirds majority — 67 senators if all 100 vote at 10:30 a.m. EDT, the wind-up hour agreed to after two weeks of debate.

Voting on the reservations was by simple majority. And the first one taken up was by Goldwater, a potential GOP nominee for president next year, to delay the effect of ratification until Russia removes all of its nuclear forces from Cuba.

Unheralded Fight

The Senate leaders had smooth sailing until the final reservation was offered when they ran into a stiff, unheralded fight. This was over a move to attach an "understanding" that the treaty does not inhibit the use of nuclear weapons by the United States in its own defense or in defense of its allies.

The proposal was offered by Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., on behalf of absent Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., in the form of a reservation. It was amended to "understanding" at the suggestion of Sen. Spessard L. Holland, D-Fla.

Democratic Senate leader Mike Mansfield and GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen said they objected to it in any form. It was killed by a 61-33 vote on a tabling motion by Mansfield.

One senator who has been considered favoring the treaty, Sen. Edwin L. Mcchem, R-N.M., announced during Monday's debate that he will vote against it. And Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., one of three senators whose stand had not been indicated also declared he will vote to reject the pact.

18 Oppose Ratification

This made 18 senators who have made such declarations. Eighty have said or indicated they will vote for the pact. Listed as undecided are Sens. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., and Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine.

Goldwater told his colleagues he would not vote for the treaty even if his reservation were accepted. But he urged: "In your nation's name and in the name of the trust your nation has placed upon you, demand at least this single, honorable, appropriate and meaningful phrase."

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., Senate Foreign Relations Committee chairman and floor manager for the treaty, said Goldwater's reservation was "inappropriate, unwise and irrelevant" despite the U.S. desire to get the Soviets out of Cuba.

The Senate rejected two reservations by Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex.: one, beaten 82-11, would

Men Vs. Women In Town Voting

SULPHUR ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Campaign signs for the city election in Sulphur Rock Nov. 5 will be simple. They'll read "Vote Men" and "Vote Women."

A full slate of women candidates is trying to oust the men from control of this North Arkansas town of 225 persons.

Mrs. Varna Travis, who has been treasurer-recorder for the past two years and who is running for mayor, said the women were disgusted with the men when no one had filed for city office less than 24 hours before the filing deadline at midnight Saturday.

The incumbent mayor and one councilman had moved out of town and the acting mayor and remaining incumbent councilmen aren't running.

"We women didn't want to be without a government, so we went to a secret meeting, but one man found out about it and called a 'men's party' meeting. Both parties filed a full slate of candidates Saturday."

Unheralded Fight

The Senate leaders had smooth sailing until the final reservation was offered when they ran into a stiff, unheralded fight. This was over a move to attach an "understanding" that the treaty does not inhibit the use of nuclear weapons by the United States in its own defense or in defense of its allies.

The proposal was offered by Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., on behalf of absent Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., in the form of a reservation. It was amended to "understanding" at the suggestion of Sen. Spessard L. Holland, D-Fla.

Democratic Senate leader Mike Mansfield and GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen said they objected to it in any form. It was killed by a 61-33 vote on a tabling motion by Mansfield.

One senator who has been considered favoring the treaty, Sen. Edwin L. Mechem, R-N.M., announced during Monday's debate that he will vote against it. And Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., one of three senators whose stand had not been indicated also declared he will vote to reject the pact.

18 Oppose Ratification

This made 18 senators who have made such declarations. Eighty have said or indicated they will vote for the pact. Listed as undecided are Sens. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., and Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine.

Goldwater told his colleagues he would not vote for the treaty even if his reservation were accepted. But he urged: "In your nation's name and in the name of the trust your nation has placed upon you, demand at least this single, honorable, appropriate and meaningful price."

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., Senate Foreign Relations Committee chairman and floor manager for the treaty, said Goldwater's reservation was "inappropriate, unwise and irrelevant" despite the U.S. desire to get the Soviets out of Cuba.

The Senate rejected two reservations by Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex.: one, beaten 82-11, would

Men Vs. Women In Town Voting

SULPHUR ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Campaign signs for the city election in Sulphur Rock Nov. 5 will be simple. They'll read: "Vote Men" and "Vote Women."

A full slate of women candidates is trying to oust the men from control of this North Arkansas town of 225 persons.

Mrs. Verna Travis, who has been treasurer-recorder for the past two years and who is running for mayor, said the women were disgusted with the men when no one had filed for city office less than 24 hours before the filing deadline at midnight Saturday.

The incumbent mayor and one councilman had moved out of town and the acting mayor and remaining incumbent councilmen aren't running.

"We women didn't want to be without a government, so we went to work," Mrs. Travis said. She called a secret meeting, but one man found out about it and called a "men's party" meeting.

Both parties filed a full slate of candidates Saturday.

West Germany Growing Target For Red Attack

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The smaller nations echoed Monday in the U.N. General Assembly the moderate tone set by the United States and the Soviet Union, but West Germany became a growing target for Communist attack.

Vaclav David, foreign minister of Czechoslovakia, called for an end to what he called "pirate raids" on Cuba by foreign ships and planes. He described the South Viet Nam government as a puppet dictatorship supported by foreign aid and following a policy of terror.

He did not blame any nation by name for either the attacks on Cuba or what he called the disturbing and dangerous situation in South Viet Nam.

But he criticized the West German government for hesitation in signing the limited nuclear test ban treaty, saying its attitude was "hostile to peace and deserving to be denounced."

David was the first Communist speaker in the general policy debate to follow Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, who took a similar line against the West German government last week.

David endorsed Gromyko's call for an 18-nation summit conference on disarmament before mid-1964, and all the Soviet proposals on disarmament, reduction of armed forces in East and West Germany, and establishment of demilitarized zones in central Europe and other areas of the world.

He asked for expulsion of the Chinese Nationalists from the United Nations and admission of the Chinese Communists, but made clear also Prague was lined up with Moscow in the current Soviet-Chinese feud. He said Czechoslovakia is dedicated to peaceful coexistence and cooperation among countries with different economic and social systems.

Vladimir Popovic, chief delegate from Yugoslavia, expressed support for Soviet disarmament proposals. But he made no comment on Gromyko's call for a disarmament meeting on the summit level.

Iranian Foreign Minister Abbas Aram told the assembly that his country—a longtime ally of the United States—is now on better terms with the Soviet Union.

He added that improved relations with Moscow "will be implemented without prejudice to our other international commitments." He said the limited test ban treaty constituted "a breakthrough in the cold war, promising to usher in a new era in international relations."

Summer Just One Long Toot To Retired Teacher

LONDON (AP) — One swallow wouldn't mind so much," said Mrs. Hawke, "but it's such a loud, powerful one and the blasts are so long."

Said the train's engineer, Nelson Andrew, 57:

"I have to toot. Otherwise I couldn't get insurance."

"Also when I roll into the station there is always a crowd of children looking on. If I didn't toot them away, they might fall in front of the engine. Anyhow, the children love the tooting so much that I haven't the heart not to toot."

Tuesday—or the next day, the town's council will be asked by the Hawkes to instruct the engineer to toot only in cases of an emergency.

It's up to the council to decide. "I had a constable to listen with me," said Hawke. "He agreed there's too much tooting. If we can't get satisfaction in the council, we may have to go to court."

Hawke, 76, a retired school principal, says the incessant tooting of a miniature locomotive is shattering the peace and quiet of his retirement.

Hawke and his wife, Gertrude, live in Christchurch, a town of 16,408 between London and the port of Southampton. Also in Christchurch is a famous miniature railway operated for the benefit of children.

The locomotive—one-twelfth the size of Britain's famous Coronation Scot Express—makes 100 circuits a day in the summertime. Each circuit is 440 yards, and the train operates five days a week.

Hawke complains that the locomotive toots eight times on each circuit—64,000 toots during a 16-week summer.

"If it had a nice quiet toot, we

Baltimore Told Fallout Shelters Of Little Value

BALTIMORE (AP)—A former consultant to the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization told Baltimore City officials Monday fallout shelters would provide little chance of survival for city dwellers in an atomic attack.

Donald N. Michael, the consultant and once a social scientist for the Joint Chiefs of Staff's Weapons and Systems Evaluation Group, read a prepared speech to the City Council which is determining the fate of a $317,000 budget request by the city's civil defense agency.

"An enemy intent on destroying our society, knowing we had fallout shelters, would design his attack to overcome this protection and thereby probably increase the total number of deaths," Dr. Michael said.

Stuart L. Pittman, assistant secretary of defense for civil defense, told the councilmen Baltimore's ability to survive a nuclear attack is vital to the country and "Baltimore doesn't really have the option to decline to protect itself."

"We assume that Baltimore is a likely target," Pittman said, "but we don't think it will be hit."

Military targets would receive a higher priority from the enemy, Pittman said, and the city's chief problem would be radiation.

"The city would come through in fairly good shape with adequate fallout protection," he said.

Dr. Tom Stonier, an author and lecturer on the effects of nuclear weapons, told the council civil defense "has very limited applicability in solving the problems that would be created by a thermonuclear attack. Civil defense psychology is probably as much of a delusion as Maginot Line psychology . . . (which) probably contributed substantially to the fall of that unhappy country (France) on 1940."

have delayed the effectiveness of ratification of the treaty until the President certifies that the Soviet Union has paid all assessments for U.N. peace-keeping operations.

Another, defeated 76-16, would have postponed effectiveness of the treaty until it has been revised by the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union to provide a system of onsite inspections and ratified by the Senate in revised form.

Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, offered but withdrew a reservation to hold up ratification until the Soviet Union pays all of its delinquent assessments to the United Nations.

Miller said he would not ask for a vote on his own proposal because the United Nations has a remedy for delinquents, depriving a country of its vote in the general Assembly.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., moved to put the Senate on record as believing that when future treaties are negotiated other countries should not be allowed to sign them until the original signatories have completed ratification.

About 100 nations have signed the pact to ban all but underground nuclear testing. Some senators say this leaves them no choice, that failure to ratify would embarrass the President.

Mundt withdrew his reservation later, saying he did not think it could be adopted.

He said he will vote for the treaty but protested what he called a "pistol at the head of the Senate."

Jacqueline Kennedy Back At White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Looking well and rested, Jacqueline Kennedy was back at the White House Monday for the first time since late June.

The first lady returned with the President and her two children from Newport, R.I., where she has been vacationing for the last couple of weeks.

Mrs. Kennedy planned to catch up on some of her White House affairs this week before taking off Oct. 2 for a visit to Greece with her brother-in-law and sister, Prince and Princess Stanislaus Radziwill.

Mrs. Kennedy planned a two-week trip abroad and perhaps longer to continue her convalescence from the premature birth last August of a son, Patrick Bouvier Kennedy, who lived only 39 hours.

Attaches Guard Vault In British Embassy Ruins

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — British diplomats took turns Monday mounting guard alongside Indonesian police over the secret-laden vault in the ruins of the British Embassy, burned by anti-Malaysia rioters last Wednesday.

The British charged Indonesians tried to deny them access to their diplomatic property and might have been tinkering with the vault. A British military attache reported he found tools, keys and steel lock picks near the vault.

Indonesian police sought Sunday night to bar British Ambassador Andrew G. Gilchrist from the premises. Gilchrist brushed past them. With the discovery of the tools, Gilchrist raced to the embassy's undamaged strongroom on the second floor and stayed beside the vault until a representative of Gov. Sumarno Sosroatmodjo arrived and agreed to the double guard.

The agreement averted a new crisis in relations between London and Jakarta, where President Sukarno is pursuing a policy hostility to Malaysia, the British-backed commonwealth nation created a week ago of four former British colonies.

Indonesia severed trade ties Saturday with Malaysia, which is made up of Malaya, Singapore and the Borneo territories of Sarawak and North Borneo.

A spokesman for Indonesia's naval officers association, Commodore Jatidjan, urged the officers in a statement carried by the official news agency Antara to join "freedom fighters" conducting guerrilla war against Sarawak and North Borneo. British

80,000,000 Have Stake In Bill To Slash Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Upwards of 80 million Americans and their dependents have a direct financial stake in an $11-billion tax reduction bill on which the House starts debate Tuesday.

For almost all of them, the bill as drafted by the House Ways and Means Committee and supported by the Kennedy administration would mean lower taxes starting next January.

For about two million in the low-income brackets, it would mean the end of federal income tax payments.

With final voting set for late Wednesday, there was no certainty Monday night what shape the measure will be in if and when it clears the House.

The big fight will be on a Republican-backed proposal to tie tax cutting to reduced government spending. GOP leaders want to make the cuts depend on submission by the President of reduced spending estimates for the present fiscal year and the next year starting July 1, 1964. The reductions would not be canceled if spending exceeded the estimates.

Republicans have called the administration measure a fraud and "morally wrong." For the average taxpayer, they claim, the tax cuts would amount only to "cigarette money."

President Kennedy is against the conditions proposed by the Republicans. The bill as drafted is the cornerstone of his economic program.

Republicans are counting on only a few losses on their side of the aisle in their drive to harness the cuts to lower spending. They expect to pick up enough sources say the guerrilla are staging raids from Indonesia.

Runaway Truck Injures Seven

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (UPI) — Seven persons were injured Monday when a tractor-trailer loaded with furniture ran wild down a steep hill leading into the city.

None of the victims was reported to have been hurt seriously although four were detained in hospitals.

Police said a big van operated by John Gilroy, 26, of Martinsburg, W. Va., lost its brakes halfway down a mile-long hill on Route 53. The runaway truck sideswiped three parked automobiles, hit a concrete bunker and came to a stop after ramming a pickup truck.

Boy Rescued From Cliff

AUGUSTA, Mont. (UPI)—Rescuers plucked a 10-year-old boy from a narrow ledge 125 feet up the face of a 1,500-foot cliff, Monday where he had been stranded nearly 18 hours.

The boy, Bruce Krummel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gill of Great Falls, Mont., was unharmed but cold, wet and scared. He was brought down a hastily built ladder to the base of the cliff.

Bruce had been on the ledge since 9 a.m. Sunday. He had been camping with his parents near Diversion Dam in Home Gulch near here.

His mother said Bruce left their camp Sunday morning with a bow and arrow, telling her he was going to climb the cliff. Mrs. Gill said she thought her son was joking and let him go.

Fugitive Is Traced To Baltimore Garage

BALTIMORE (AP)—A Crime Laboratory report revealed Monday that a fugitive from a mental institution had been hiding out in a northwest Baltimore garage.

Police said they found the fingerprints of Thomas A. Hadder, 21, of Richmond, Va., in the private garage.

Police swooped down on the garage Sunday night after reports that Hadder had been seen in the wooden structure earlier in the day. All they found were two pairs of men's trousers, an automobile and an empty jar.

Police believed Hadder, charged in the slaying of a Prince Georges County policeman, was still hiding in the Baltimore area.

Hadder and Stanley N. Slagle, charged with armed robbery, both escaped from the Clifton T. Perkins State Hospital Sept. 13. Slagle was captured Saturday in an East Baltimore rooming house.

Police said they consider Hadder to be extremely dangerous.

Culver Pleads No Contest In S&L Mail Fraud Case

BALTIMORE (AP) — Charles F. Culver, one of five defendants in the mail-fraud case involving operations of Security Financial Insurance Corporation, pleaded "no contest" Monday in U.S. District Court.

The government did not oppose the move and Judge Roszel C. Thomsen accepted the plea.

Defense lawyers for the four defendants then asked for postponement of the trial, scheduled to begin within two weeks.

Thomsen said he would hear 11 pre-trial motions before deciding whether the postponement should be granted.

Alan H. Murrell, attorney for Culver, said his client, an insurance man in the Baltimore suburb of Catonsville and former Democratic member of the Maryland House of Delegates, fully understood that the "no contest" plea was an implied admission of guilt. It could mean a $1,000 fine and five years in prison for each of the nine counts against Culver.

Other defendants are Del. A. Gordon Boone of Towson, Md., self-suspended Democratic speaker of the Maryland House; C. Oran Mensik, Chicago financier; Henry McGurran, Chicago attorney, and D. Spencer Grow of Provo, Utah, savings and loan operator.

The five were indicted March on charges of using fraudulent ad-

Culver Pleads No Contest In S&L Mail Fraud Case

BALTIMORE (AP) — Charles F. Culver, one of five defendants in the mail-fraud case involving operations of Security Financial Insurance Corporation, pleaded "no contest" Monday in U.S. District Court.

The government did not oppose the move and Judge Roszel C. Thomsen accepted the plea.

Defense lawyers for the four defendants then asked for postponement of the trial, scheduled to begin within two weeks.

Thomsen said he would hear 11 pre-trial motions before deciding whether the postponement should be granted.

Alan H. Murrell, attorney for Culver, said his client, an insurance man in the Baltimore suburb of Catonsville and former Democratic member of the Maryland House of Delegates, fully understood that the "no contest" plea was an implied admission of guilt. It could mean a $1,000 fine and five years in prison for each of the nine counts against Culver.

Other defendants are Del. A. Gordon Boone of Towson, Md., self-suspended Democratic speaker of the Maryland House; C. Oran Mensik, Chicago financier; Henry McGurran, Chicago attorney, and D. Spencer Grow of Provo, Utah, savings and loan operator.

The five were indicted March 1 on charges of using fraudulent ad-

He entered the plea in Hillsborough County Criminal Court where he was sentenced to one year in the state penitentiary. He had been charged on five counts of grand larceny involving $6,800 but was convicted on only one. The alleged thefts occurred last September.

Queen City Mud Hens Discuss Workshops

Demonstrations and workshops were discussed at the meeting of the Queen City Mud Hens, conducted by Mrs. Betty Chaney, at her home, Bedford Street. It was decided to have a demonstration at each meeting, and if anyone is interested to hold a workshop.

The by-laws were read, discussed and revised. They will be voted on at the next meeting, which will be held at the home of Mrs. Roberta Powers, Bedford Road, October 15. The hostess will give a demonstration on the new Loraine stains.

The club decided to have an exhibit at the Open House of the Allegany County Historical Society, 218 Washington Street, October 12. It will be from 1 until 4 o'clock, with all members participating.

Work was exhibited by various members. Mrs. Powers showed a cherub figurine holding a composite dish, which she had done in white satin sprayed with gold, a pair of Oriental figurines in Loraine stain, a small vase head, "Sleepy" done in stains and a small figurine in Hummel effect also in stains. Mrs. Irene Critzman showed a small figurine done in stains, and a small lipstick girl in green glaze with gold trim.

The hostess exhibited one plate she had done with cranes in glaze on glaze technique, a square dish done in charcoal matt decorated with flair, a large plate done in underglaze on glaze, a pair of Oriental plaques done in stains and a small pair of Orientals done in rosewood effect and a small Mandarin in stains. Her daughter, Mrs. Patricia Fultz, had a Mandarin and Oriental princess six tile plaque on cork.

Others present were Mrs. Virginia Chaney, Mrs. Grace Trevaskis, Miss Helen Cherry, Mrs. Ellen Cook, Mrs. Georgetown Gilford and Mrs. Eleanor Snyder.

Secrets Of Charm by John Robert Powers How To Get More Out Of Exercise

When you exercise, make sure that you feel how much it's doing for you every step of the way, and it will actually do you the most good. Build up that exhilarating feeling the prescribed routine can give you by snapping to it at every session, by a stimulating consciousness of your muscles at work.

Follow directions exactly, but give the outward fling of an arm or leg vigor beyond the call of duty, the bend from the waistline an extra pull. Note advice to work up gradually to the number of times each exercise should be repeated, but once up to quota, continue to go at it with a right good will.

Head advice on rate of speed, too. Hurry doesn't do the trick—full effort does. Never give in to the temptation to hasten a slow exercise because it's easier that way. Few exercises take more than a minute or two, and ten minutes a day for the total is enough.

Certainly ten minutes of exercise daily is worth far more than two hours a week, and there's all the difference in the world between the way you feel from the short, regular session than from far-apart longer ones. Muscles come alive from the brisk, short routine, more so every day, but respond so much less willingly and tire from too prolonged demands. The everyday liveliness, not the occasional strain, also means success at the contoured you're trying to accomplish.

Never mind what your experience was before—tackle exercising this time resolved to give it more and you'll get more out of it. Break in gradually and don't overdo, so you can reach the daily invigorating good exercise brings as soon as possible—and you'll enjoy keeping at it. Don't schedule it for a time when physically tired, or lazy after a big meal, but it can come at a time when you're mentally tired or have stayed too long in one place. Then the exercise can be a wonderful refresher, exactly the lift for the spirits that you need.

Exercise is especially refreshing when paced to the rhythm of music. Music always seems to be a lift for the spirits — so when you combine it with healthful exercise, how can it miss? Why not send for a copy of my guide booklet, "Dance Through a Week to Beauty?" In it you'll find a wonderful way to more zest and liveliness. Just send 10c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me, far-apart longer ones. Muscles come alive from the brisk, short

Ann Landers . . . Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a girl almost 17 who has an unusual problem. I have boy friends galore. I could have two dates every night in the week if I wanted them. And I'm not what you would call beautiful, either. I just seem to attract fellows. It's been this way since I was 13.

My problem is I don't have one girl friend to my name. Girls just don't like me, Ann. I feel badly about this although I try not to show it. But I would gladly give 20 boy friends if I could have just one girl friend who actually liked me.

Can you help me? I don't recall ever having seen this problem in your column before. Thank you.

—HALF LONELY
DEAR LONELY: The best way to get friendship is to give it. You have probably shielded away from girls and behaved indifferently toward them because you assumed they did not like you. And quite naturally, these girls reacted to your coolness.

When you are next in a group with both boys and girls make a special effort to pay attention to the girls instead of the boys. Warmth begets warmth — as you will see.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I wrote you in May about an unfaithful husband. I took your advice and things seem to be a great deal better. Now I have another problem.

I recently learned that the two paintings hanging in our living room were done by this other woman and not a gift from a business associate as my husband told me when he brought them home. I have always liked the paintings and they have hung in our home for almost four years. Now that I know who did the paintings I get sick to my stomach whenever I look at them.

Last night I told my husband how I felt and he said I was being childish — that he likes the pictures and that I should let them hang. He swears the affair is over between him and this woman (and I have every reason to believe him) and that therefore removing the pictures would be silly.

May we hear from you on this? —BUTTERFLIES IN MY BRAIN
DEAR BRAIN: People often

move art when they redecorate. Doesn't your living room need new wallpaper or paint? Aren't you tired of the furniture in the same place for four years?

Perhaps it's time to move things around a little. Those paintings might look better in the hall for a few weeks — and then in the attic.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I need an older person to tell me what to do and it can't be anyone who knows me, so you are elected.

I am a 14-year-old girl who is far from beautiful but I have lots of friends. Three weeks ago my mother's step-brother, Joe, moved to this city to go to work for my dad. This step-uncle is about 33 years old. He was married seven years ago but is divorced now.

Uncle Joe is staying in our house and I wish he would get out and find a place of his own. He is always pawing me and pulling me on his lap. Whenever he sits next to me he tries to hold my hand. Last night he tried to talk to me about some very personal things which are none of his business.

I told my mom this morning that Uncle Joe is fresh and she said the trouble with teenage girls today is they all think they are Elizabeth Taylor and that every man is after them.

I am NOT imagining things. Please help me.—DOLLY

DEAR DOLLY: In time your Uncle Joe will do or say something which is unmistakably out of line. When he does, go to your father — not your mother — and give him chapter and verse. In the meantime stay plenty alert and do not remain in the house with him unless another adult is present.

Planning a wedding? Leave nothing to chance. ANN LANDERS' newest booklet, "The Bride's Guide," has all the answers from announcing the engagement to "who pays for what?". To receive your copy, write to Ann Landers, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and .35c in coin.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The bidding:
West 1♣ North 1♥ East Pass South 3NT
Pass Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: King of ♠
The defense got off to a fast start in today's hand when they collected their book at the opening gun against South's three no trump contract. Declarer, however, put on a whirlwind finish and, in the end, West was forced to conclude that an abundance of natural assets can at times be a distinct liability.

When South heard his partner overcall West's opening club bid with one heart, he decided to play the hand in game. Holding 14 high card points with stoppers in all other suits, he jumped to three no trump. Observe that a bid of two no trump in this situation is not forcing inasmuch as partner is not the opening bidder.

West opened the king of clubs and when East signaled encouragingly with the nine West continued with a small club next. East played the ace and a club return thru the jack mopped up two more tricks in the suit. West exited with a diamond, and sat back with the comfortable expectation of eventually winning the setting trick either in hearts or spades.

The diamond lead was taken by declarer's ten and the latter took an immediate heart finesse. When North's jack of hearts held, South concluded that he could take three sure tricks in that suit which, together with one spade and four diamonds, brought his total to eight. Since West needed both major suit kings to justify his opening bid, a spade finesse could not be relied on to win a ninth trick. It appeared certain, however, to declarer that his opponent could not protect himself against the onslaught of diamonds, and he pressed his attack in that direction.

As the diamond suit was run, West found himself placed in an increasingly precarious position. On the second and third diamonds he was able to part with two small spades, but on the last diamond his margin of safety was gone. He had to retain his hearts to prevent declarer from running dummy's entire suit with the aid of another finesse. West parted with the jack of spades in the faint hope that East could protect that suit. South now cashed the ace of spades and, when the king fell, he produced the queen for the game fulfilling trick.

"Conscience" Observance To Be Sunday

As many churches in the Cumberland area will hold a "Day of Conscience" observance, September 29, Mrs. George A. Hazen, president of the United Church Women of Cumberland, asks all members and people of the community to participate in mourning the death of the young people in Birmingham, Ala.

She urges that in the spirit of prayer to ask "guidance upon us all that from these sufferings we might arise at last as one people who dwell together in love, brotherhood and peace. Everyone, regardless of age or religious faith, can join with the leaders who met in Washington last week and pay a most fitting tribute to the memory of these children by writing to our Congressman pleading in the words of Lincoln, "That from these honored dead... this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom."

Mrs. Hazen said last evening that she received a letter from Robert W. Spike, executive director of the Commission on Religion and Race of the National Council of Churches, reporting the meeting of representatives of major religious groups in Washington to express "their deep moral outrage" over the Birmingham bombing, and urge legislation to insure such incidents will not occur again. They also stated, "... the hour has now come when more than the leadership of the churches and synagogues must act. The whole religious community — and that means each and every one of its members — must make their presence felt in Washington, too."

Sacred Heart Hospital Auxiliary-benefit card party and style show will be held at 8 tonight at the Ali Ghan Shrine Club.

Iota Epsilon, TPL Entertains Rushees

Iota Epsilon Chapter, Tau Phi Lambda Sorority of the Supreme Forest Woodman Circle, discussed plans for a pledge service and entertained the rushees at a French "Can Can Frolic", Thursday evening. It was held at First Christian Church social hall.

The rushees were introduced by Miss Jacqua Day, vice president. They are Miss Bonna Koegel, Mrs. Leona Twigg, Mrs. Sally Bolden and Mrs. Darlene Jenkins. Mrs. Bolden was presented a coin purse for having the most original costume and Mrs. Patricia McKenzie, miniature French poodles, for the funniest costume.

Mrs. Jane Frederick led an ice-breaker pantomime, "My Son Goes To Paris." Mrs. Loretta Keener, district manager, also was introduced. During the evening word games were played. Each member was given a letter and between activities words were announced. Mrs. Twigg was the winner and received a small dictionary. Miss Koegel won a set of paints for a self portrait. Winners in the "mad scramble" gifts were Mrs. Patricia Hunter, Mrs. Twigg, Mrs. Dorothy Silber, Mrs. Bolden, Mrs. Jenkins, Mrs. Lillian Hannas and Mrs. Anna Margaret Connelley. A prize of a French hat box was awarded to Mrs. Bolden who was model for a French poodle in the newspaper costume contest.

Following the entertainment Mrs. Keener spoke of the national sorority and Mrs. Silber, local president, of the chapter activities and honors it has received. The hall was arranged like a sidewalk cafe. Decorations consisted of silhouettes of Parish landmarks. Artists easels were the programs and the favors were felt garters.

Others attending were Mrs. Janet Koegel, Miss Joyce Bruner, Mrs. Shirley Calain, Miss Marjory Crist, Mrs. Betty Dean, Mrs. Margaret Hartman, Mrs. Gale Lambert, Miss Joan Lear, Miss Juanita Leese, Mrs. Betty Ann Poland, Miss Juanita Prine, Mrs. Anna Lee Snyder and Mrs. Mary White. The next meeting will be a pledge service at the home of Mrs. Frederick, 1006 Brown Avenue. It will be October 3.

Xi Beta Exemplar, BSP, will meet at the home of Miss Eleanor Albright, Columbia Street, tonight.

The Associated Women of the Farm Bureau will meet today at the home of Mrs. Theodore Stegmaier, Christie Road.

LaVale Century Club will meet at 8 tonight at the Methodist Church.

How To Get More Out Of Exercise

When you exercise, make sure that you feel how much it's doing for you every step of the way, and it will actually do you the most good. Build up that exhilarating feeling the prescribed routine can give you by snapping to it at every session, by a stimulating consciousness of your muscles at work.

Follow directions exactly, but give the outward fling of an arm or leg vigor beyond the call of duty, the bend from the waistline an extra pull. Note advice to work up gradually to the number of times each exercise should be repeated, but once up to quota, continue to go at it with a right good will.

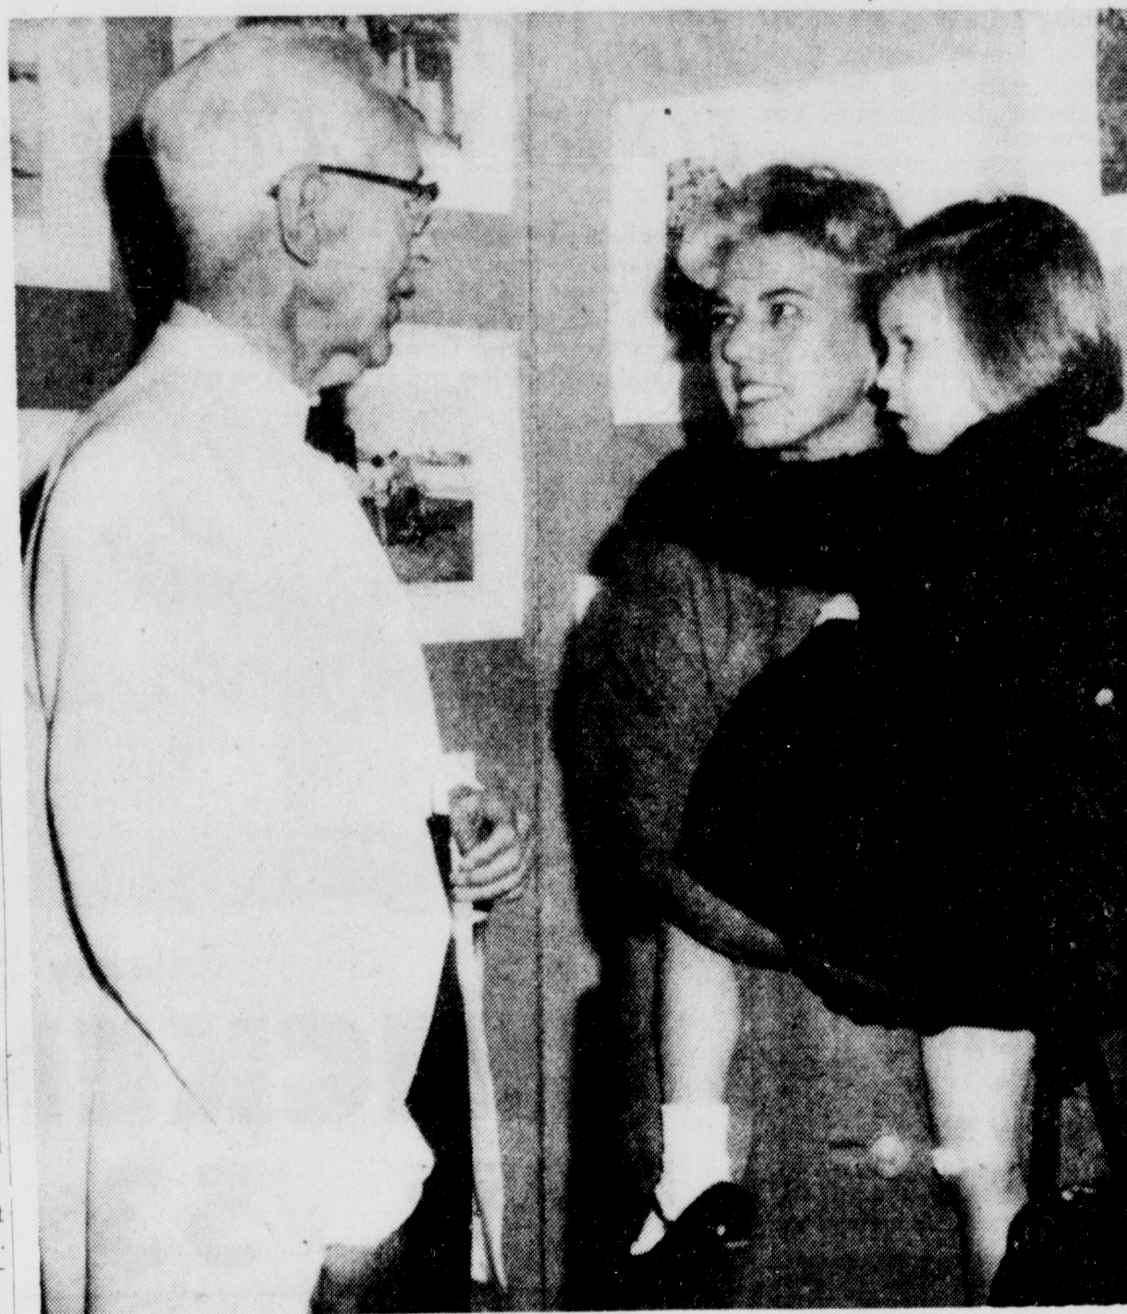

Heed advice on rate of speed, too. Hurry doesn't do the trick—full effort does. Never give in to the temptation to hasten a slow exercise because it's easier that way. Few exercises take more than a minute or two, and ten minutes a day for the total is enough.

Certainly ten minutes of exercise daily is worth far more than two hours a week, and there's all the difference in the world between the way you feel from the short, regular session than from far-apart longer ones. Muscles come alive from the brisk, short routine, more so every day, but respond so much less willingly and tire from too prolonged demands. The everyday liveliness, not the occasional strain, also means success at the contending you're trying to accomplish.

Never mind what your experience was before—tackle exercising this time resolved to give it more and you'll get more out of it. Break in gradually and don't overdo, so you can reach the daily invigorating good exercise brings as soon as possible—and you'll enjoy keeping at it. Don't schedule it for a time when physically tired, or lazy after a big meal, but it can come at a time when you're mentally tired or have stayed too long in one place. Then the exercise can be a wonderful refresher, exactly the lift for the spirits that you need.

Exercise is especially refreshing when paced to the rhythm of music. Music always seems to be a lift for the spirits — so when you combine it with healthful exercise, how can it miss? Why not send for a copy of my guide booklet, "Dance Through a Week to Beauty?" In it you'll find a wonderful way to more zest and liveliness. Just send 10c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me, John Robert Powers, c/o this come alive from the brisk, short newspaper.

Church Women Meeting Called

A meeting of Christian social relations secretaries has been called by Mrs. Albert Northcraft, World Community Day chairman of the United Church Women of Cumberland.

It will be Friday at 1 p. m., at Centre Street Methodist church. Posters, programs and literature will be distributed. All participating churches are urged to send a representative.

A rummage sale will be held by the Excelsior class of Grace Methodist Church from 1 to 3 in the church basement, Virginia Avenue and Second Street.

Conscience" Observance To Be Sunday

As many churches in the Cumberland area will hold a "Day of Conscience" observance, September 29, Mrs. George A. Hazen, president of the United Church Women of Cumberland, asks all members and people of the community to participate in mourning the death of the young people in Birmingham, Ala.

She urges that in the spirit of prayer to ask "guidance upon us all that from these sufferings we might arise at last as one people who dwell together in love, brotherhood and peace. Everyone, regardless of age or religious faith, can join with the leaders who met in Washington last week and pay a most fitting tribute to the memory of these children by writing to our Congressman pleading in the words of Lincoln, "That from these honored dead... this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom."

Mrs. Hazen said last evening that she received a letter from Robert W. Spike, executive director of the Commission on Religion and Race of the National Council of Churches, reporting the meeting of representatives of major religious groups in Washington to express "their deep moral outrage" over the Birmingham bombing, and urge legislation to insure such incidents will not occur again. They also stated, "... the hour has now come when more than the leadership of the churches and synagogues must act. The whole religious community — and that means each and every one of its members — must make their presence felt in Washington, too."

Sacred Heart Hospital Auxiliary benefit card party and style show will be held at 8 tonight at the Ali Ghan Shrine Club.

Iota Epsilon, TPL Entertains Rushees

Iota Epsilon Chapter, Tau Phi Lambda Sorority of the Supreme Forest Woodman Circle, discussed plans for a pledge service and entertained the rushees at a French "Can Can Frolic", Thursday evening. It was held at First Christian Church social hall.

The rushees were introduced by Miss Jacqua Day, vice president. They are Miss Bonna Koegel, Mrs. Leona Twigg, Mrs. Sally Bolden and Mrs. Darlene Jenkins. Mrs. Bolden was presented a coin purse for having the most original costume and Mrs. Patricia McKenzie, miniature French poodles, for the funniest costume.

Mrs. Jane Frederick led an ice-breaker pantomime, "My Son Goes To Paris." Mrs. Loretta Keener, district manager, also was introduced. During the evening word games were played. Each member was given a letter and between activities words were announced. Mrs. Twigg was the winner and received a small dictionary. Miss Koegel won a set of paints for a self portrait. Winners in the "mad scramble" gifts were Mrs. Patricia Hunter, Mrs. Twigg, Mrs. Dorothy Silber, Mrs. Bolden, Mrs. Jenkins, Mrs. Lillian Hannas and Mrs. Anna Margaret Connelley. A prize of a French hat box was awarded to Mrs. Bolden who was model for a French poodle in the newspaper costume contest.

Following the entertainment Mrs. Keener spoke of the national sorority and Mrs. Silber, local president, of the chapter activities and honors it has received. The hall was arranged like a sidewalk cafe. Decorations consisted of silhouettes of Parish landmarks. Artists easels were the programs and the favors were felt garters.

Others attending were Mrs. Janet Koegel, Miss Joyce Bruner, Mrs. Shirley Calain, Miss Marjory Crist, Mrs. Betty Dean, Mrs. Margaret Hartman, Mrs. Gale Lambert, Miss Joan Lear, Miss Juanita Leese, Mrs. Betty Ann Poland, Miss Juanita Prine, Mrs. Anna Lee Snyder and Mrs. Mary White. The next meeting will be a pledge service at the home of Mrs. Frederick, 1006 Brown Avenue. It will be October 3.

Xi Beta Exemplar, BSP, will meet at the home of Miss Eleanor Albright, Columbia Street, tonight.

The Associated Women of the Farm Bureau will meet today at the home of Mrs. Theodore Stegmaier, Christie Road.

LaVale Century Club will meet at 8 tonight at the Methodist Church.

Ann Landers ... Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a girl almost 17 who has an unusual problem. I have boy friends galore. I could have two dates every night in the week if I wanted them. And I'm not what you would call beautiful, either. I just seem to attract fellows. It's been this way since I was 13.

My problem is I don't have one girl friend to my name. Girls just don't like me, Ann. I feel badly about this although I try not to show it. But I would gladly give 20 boy friends if I could have just one girl friend who actually liked me.

Can you help me? I don't recall ever having seen this problem in your column before. Thank you.

—HALF LONELY

DEAR LONELY: The best way to get friendship is to give it. You have probably shielded away from girls and behaved indifferently toward them because you assumed they did not like you. And quite naturally, these girls reacted to your coolness.

When you are next in a group with both boys and girls make a special effort to pay attention to the girls instead of the boys. Warmth begets warmth — as you will see.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I wrote you in May about an unfaithful husband. I took your advice and things seem to be a great deal better. Now I have another problem.

I recently learned that the two paintings hanging in our living room were done by this other woman and not a gift from a business associate as my husband told me when he brought them home. I have always liked the paintings and they have hung in our home for almost four years. Now that I know who did the paintings I get sick to my stomach whenever I look at them.

Last night I told my husband how I felt and he said I was being childish — that he likes the pictures and that I should let them hang. He swears the affair is over between him and this woman (and I have every reason to believe him) and that therefore removing the pictures would be silly.

May we hear from you on this? —BUTTERFLIES IN MY BRAIN

move art when they redecorate. Doesn't your living room need new wallpaper or paint? Aren't you tired of the furniture in the same place for four years?

Perhaps it's time to move things around a little. Those paintings might look better in the hall for a few weeks — and then in the attic.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I need an older person to tell me what to do and it can't be anyone who knows me, so you are elected.

I am a 14-year-old girl who is far from beautiful but I have lots of friends. Three weeks ago my mother's step-brother, Joe, moved to this city to go to work for my dad. This step-uncle is about 33 years old. He was married seven years ago but is divorced now.

Uncle Joe is staying in our house and I wish he would get out and find a place of his own. He is always pawing me and pulling me on his lap. Whenever he sits next to me he tries to hold my hand. Last night he tried to talk to me about some very personal things which are none of his business.

I told my mom this morning that Uncle Joe is fresh and she said the trouble with teenage girls today is they all think they are Elizabeth Taylor and that every man is after them.

I am NOT imagining things. Please help me.—DOLLY

DEAR DOLLY: In time your Uncle Joe will do or say something which is unmistakably out of line. When he does, go to your father — not your mother — and give him chapter and verse. In the meantime stay plenty alert and do not remain in the house with him unless another adult is present.

Planning a wedding? Leave nothing to chance. ANN LANDERS' newest booklet, "The Bride's Guide," has all the answers (from announcing the engagement to "who pays for what"). To receive your copy, write to Ann Landers, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and .35c in coin.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The bidding:
West North East South
1 ♠ 1 ♥ Pass 3 NT
Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: King of ♠

The defense got off to a fast start in today's hand when they collected their book at the opening gun against South's three no trump contract. Declarer, however, put on a whirlwind finish and, in the end, West was forced to conclude that an abundance of natural assets can at times be a distinct liability.

When South heard his partner overall West's opening club bid with one heart, he decided to play the hand in game. Holding 14 high card points with stoppers in all other suits, he jumped to three no trump. Observe that a bid of two no trump in this situation is not forcing inasmuch as partner is not the opening bidder.

West opened the king of clubs and when East signaled encouragingly with the nine West continued with a small club next. East played the ace and a club return thru the jack mopped up two more tricks in the suit. West exited with a diamond, and sat back with the comfortable expectation of eventually winning the setting trick either in hearts or spades.

The diamond lead was taken by declarer's ten and the latter took an immediate heart finesse. When North's jack of hearts held, South concluded that he could take three sure trick in that suit which, together with one spade and four diamonds, brought his total to eight. Since West needed both major suit kings to justify his opening bid, a spade finesse could not be relied on to win a ninth trick. It appeared certain, however, to declarer that his opponent could not protect himself against the onslaught of diamonds, and he pressed his attack in that direction.

As the diamond suit was run, West found himself placed in an increasingly precarious position. On the second and third diamonds he was able to part with two small spades, but on the last diamond his margin of safety was gone. He had to retain his hearts to prevent declarer from running dummy's entire suit with the aid of another finesse. West parted with the jack of spades in the faint hope that East could protect that suit. South now cashed the ace of spades and, when the king fell, he produced the queen for the game fulfilling trick.

FPC Demands Licenses

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Power Commission officials contended Monday Union Carbide Corp. should obtain a federal license for two hydroelectric plants it operates in West Virginia. Union Carbide has denied the necessity of a government license for either its Hawks Nest or Glen Ferris hydroelectric projects on the New and Kanawha rivers. The commission said Sept. 9 that an offer of settlement of the issue by Union Carbide was unacceptable to it.

The offer, it said, proposed that Union Carbide would acknowledge FPC licensing authority over the projects if the term of any license issued extended to 1993 and a certain method of calculating gross earnings was incorporated.

Maryland News In Brief

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality said Monday that downtown department stores give only token employment to Negroes in saleswork and high-level jobs.

A survey which was begun Aug. 7 showed, CORE said, that "less than six or seven Negro sales people" were employed among several hundred white employees. Chapter Chairman Edward Chance promised "direct action plans to eliminate tokenism in the hiring of Negroes in the city area."

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — Baltimore County Police have charged William C. Hammond, 32, of White Hall, with homicide in the shotgun slaying of a neighbor.

The neighbor, Victor Svec, 55, was slain Saturday as he stood near the entrance to his farm about 2½ miles south of the Pennsylvania line. Svec died en route to the York, Pa., General Hospital.

A hearing for Hammond has been set for Wednesday night in Parkton Police Court.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Nobody yelled "fore" as the driver of a stolen car led police on a scenic tour of the Forest Park Golf Course Sunday night.

Some of the greens were torn up in the chase, which ended when the driver struck a tree. He escaped before completing 18 holes.

SALISBURY (AP) — Mrs. Robert W. Hill Sr. was home with four of her seven children when fire broke out in the kitchen Monday morning. She escaped with all except her youngest.

Firemen found 10-month-old Bobby Jr. on a sofa in the front room. He was dead on arrival at a hospital.

Three other children had left for school and the father for work before the fire.

Charges Against Police Officer Stand

ELLICOTT CITY, Md. (AP) — The Howard County Commissioners turned down Monday a motion to dismiss charges against suspended Police Lieutenant Harry M. Harrison.

Preston M. Pairo Jr., Harrison's attorney, had asked the commissioners to throw out charges that Harrison failed to show proper leadership, encouraged insubordination, illegally promised immunity in a criminal case and made disrespectful remarks about the county commissioners.

The commissioners, however, did dismiss a charge that Harrison failed to make an appointment for Chief Jack L. Larrimore.

Officer Elmer L. Cameron testified Monday that he was one of a group of officers who deliberately kept arrest reports and car mileage charts low "to make Chief Larrimore look bad."

Cameron said Harrison once told him to park his car in order to reduce car mileage.

Officer Robert Moore said that Harrison failed to discourage other officers' attempts to discredit Larrimore.

Harrison was suspended from the force by Larrimore July 6. Since that time, four other officers have quit the force.

Harrison, in the meantime, filed a libel suit against Larrimore.

LaVale Men Promoted By Kelly Tire Company

Ivan A. Hall, LaVale, has been promoted to director of development, and Paul G. Angle, also of LaVale, has been advanced to development department manager at Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, James C. Warden, vice president-manufacturing, announced yesterday.

The two new assignments became effective immediately, Warden stated.

Hall joined Kelly here in November 1945 as compounder in the development department. In January, 1950 he was promoted to chief chemist.

He went in May 1951 to the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company organization as production superintendent of the Goodyear Engineering Corporation, Charleston, Ind.

Hall returned to Kelly as assistant development engineer in August 1953 and was promoted to development manager in March 1955. He served in this capacity until his promotion yesterday.

A chemistry major graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University, Hall also did graduate work at University of Michigan and Ohio State University. He formerly taught chemistry in high school in Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Hall reside at 7 Warfield Place, LaVale, with their son, David, and daughter, Diana. He is first vice president of the LaVale Lions Club and is active in Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, in local Masonic organizations and Centre Street Methodist Church.

Angle joined Kelly in May 1940 as a draftsman and was appointed a production foreman in April 1942.

Eight months later he was promoted to process engineer and was appointed senior engineer of the technical service department the following year.

In August 1955, Angle became section head of design and technical service. He was promoted to manager of tire engineering in July 1961.

A Geneva College civil engineer graduate, he also earned a bachelor of science degree in management engineering from Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Still No Decision Made On Downtown Housing Unit

The status of the controversial downtown housing project for the aged remained unchanged yesterday, despite a 1½-hour meeting called at the direction of Mayor and Council with three involved agencies and the Allegany County Commission on the Problems of the Aging.

The sometimes-heated meeting resulted in a proposal by Albert S. Payne, county engineer, that a committee consisting of chairman of the Urban Renewal Agency, the City Planning and Zoning Commission, the Cumberland Housing Authority and Mayor Earl D. Chaney take time to study the problems involved and report back to council before final action is taken.

Rev. William J. Cox asked that a representative of the Commission for the Aging be included on the committee, and stated that Francis Kenney, chairman, be appointed.

Mayor Chaney closed the meeting, held prior to the regular meeting of Mayor and Council, with the statement that he would take action on the committee proposal "before too long."

In the meantime, the question of Cumberland losing federal money for the 100-unit housing project proposed for North Mechanic Street between Frederick and Market streets, and an accompanying 100-unit general housing package remains unsolved.

Equally unsolved is the question whether or not the proposed location should remain zoned for commercial use only, or if rezoning should be done to permit the residential project.

Mayor Chaney said he was personally opposed to locating the housing unit downtown. "This land is too valuable," the Mayor commented, and "it should be used for commercial development."

Federal money for the project, the application for which was approved last December, will be lost if sufficient progress is not made by June 1964, the close of the current fiscal year, it was emphasized by Rev. H. M. Richardson, chairman of the Housing Authority.

William F. DeMare, director of the Cumberland Renewal Agency, said he conferred with the regional Public Housing Authority in Philadelphia where officials told him they were of the opinion that although the federal subsidy might be lost for fiscal 1964-65, "you can gamble on getting it another year if you proceed quickly enough and if other sites are available."

The Urban Renewal Agency originally planned to utilize the same property in question for a downtown parking lot. DeMare said, however, "parking is not the question. A parking lot can be found elsewhere. It is in the public interest to coordinate the work of those agencies to get the best use of that land."

He said it was of concern if a development went into that area, "public housing or otherwise," whether marketability could be achieved. "We wish the two programs could be coordinated," said DeMare of the housing and urban renewal agencies.

The lack of coordination among the three agencies, all appointed by the Mayor and Council, was accentuated and suggestions were made that their work and their projects "dovetailed" whenever possible.

Rev. Mr. Richardson stated that options have been obtained on the property and that 35 different people are involved in the purchase. "We can't delay. We have to be given the go-ahead. We had objections with the Benjamin Banneker and Jane Frazier projects and we were held up for the Fort Cumberland Homes project, but we have justified the expert knowledge of PHA (Public Housing Authority) in choosing these locations."

Rev. Mr. Richardson said that "This is a 200-unit proposition and we'll lose them all" if plans are delayed. He said the original request was made for a 100-unit project for the elderly and a 200-unit project was granted. "I feel honor-bound to get the 100 for the elderly before the other."

S. Russ Minter, architect retained for the proposed project, showed a sketch of the 11-story building which would house 160 people.

John R. Joyner, city planning engineer, stated that under the present proposal of the planning commission, housing is not permitted in the area in question. He said one of two things need to be done: "Zoning changed, or no housing permitted."

Joyner remarked that no real change in the zoning character can take place until it is incorporated into the urban renewal plan.

Charles R. Nuzum, city engineer, said his interest was in the city's sewer line (Mill Run) and whether or not the housing unit would affect it, to which James B. Raines, housing authority director, responded that the engineer's office could not raise that objection until it sees plans detailing the actual location of the housing unit.

Mayor Chaney raised other objections as to its location and said that he felt locating the project downtown is unwise because of the traffic and noise.

F. Patrick Allender, member of the Housing Authority, objected to DeMare's consultation with the Philadelphia office and said if that method is to be employed, "We can go to the urban renewal department in Washington."

The planning commission stated that in the future "all housing authority projects should come through the zoning commission."

It was brought out that the planning commission had plans for the area in the relocation of the west side of Mechanic Street because the land is "desirable for commercial development."

It appears that the question of the project for the aging depends upon steps taken by the proposed committee, if and when appointed by the mayor.

Public Hearing Scheduled On Zoning Plan

The Mayor and Council has scheduled a public hearing on a proposed zoning ordinance for October 14.

Council acted after the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission submitted the proposal. Finance Commissioner Frederick J. Hill made a motion that the commission's letter be filed and appropriate action taken to set up the public hearing.

The Planning Commission held a public hearing on the plan last week. James Alfred Aviret, vice chairman, told council a map of the changes was available for its consideration.

Accepted was the Land Use and Community Facilities Plan, which was adopted by the planning commission last week.

Police Are Probing Theft Reports

City Police were kept busy over the weekend with a large number of complaints, mostly of a minor nature.

Philip Morris, Wiley Ford, informed authorities Saturday from a set of tools, valued at $250, had been stolen from a local garage where he is employed.

A breaking and entering was also reported at Murphy's One-Stop Restaurant, where the intruder took $1 in pennies and $3 in change from a juke box.

City Police also discovered over the weekend a number of cars damaged on a local used car lot. Police said ten vehicles were found damaged by paint remover.

Young GOP Club To Meet Tomorrow

The Young Republican Club of Allegany County will meet Wednesday at 8 p. m. at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Ralph Buser, president, said Mrs. Leah Buser, a member of the Republican State Central Committee, will speak on "Precinct Organization."

Plans will be formulated for the annual fall dance to be held Friday, November 8, at the Shrine Club.

Court Rejects Cigarette Co. Machine Appeal

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—An appeal by American Cigarette Service Inc., Huntington, to let it return to service a number of vending machines seized last month by the State Tax Department was rejected Monday by the State Supreme Court.

The high court said its rejection would have no bearing on a motion by Tax Commissioner G. Thomas Battle to retain custody of the machines for evidence purposes. Arguments on that motion are slated for Oct. 1.

Battle's petition for a writ of prohibition objected to Cabel County Circuit Court Judge John Hereford's ruling directing a special receiver to operate the business pending the outcome of a court hearing.

The firm was charged with possession and use of counterfeit state cigarette tax stamps and alleged non-payment of state tax on cigarettes. State tax agents rounded up more than 400 of the company's vending machines.

In its appeal, the company had said other vending machine operators have moved into places of businesses where American has operated and that if no receiver was appointed during the pending action of the circuit court, the business would be ruined and employees deprived of a livelihood.

Senators Speak To W. Va. NAACP

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., said preparations are being made for an anticipated filibuster when President Kennedy's civil rights program reaches the Senate floor.

Clark made the observation Sunday at the Emancipation Proclamation Festival sponsored by the West Virginia NAACP.

Clark said he, Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., and other supporters of the proposal "will be sleeping on cots around the clock" to try to pass what he called "a meaningful civil rights bill."

The Pennsylvania senator said the Emancipation Proclamation expresses the "central thought that all men must be free."

Randolph and Rep. Ken Hechler, D-W.Va., also addressed the festival.

Governor Returns Former Policeman Home Tomorrow Sent To Prison

LONDON (UPI)—West Virginia Gov. W. W. Barron, rounding out a two-week tour of several European countries, is scheduled to arrive back in Charleston Wednesday night.

Barron flew here Sunday from Paris for a two-day visit.

A spokesman said the governor planned to hold a news conference of his trip "as soon as possible" after his return to West Virginia.

During the remainder of the week, Barron will make a number of appearances in his state. He will take part in the Buckwheat Festival in Kingwood Friday, appear at Bluefield and Oak Hill Saturday and will be on hand in Malden, Kanawha County, next Sunday for the dedication of the Booker T. Washington monument.

Webb, 47, pleaded guilty to taking $750 from A. R. Savage and Son, steamship agents. Webb, a West Virginia State Police sergeant for 12 years before coming here, was operations manager for the firm.

Three years ago, Webb was acquitted in Charleston, W. Va., on charges of receiving $19,250 in bribes from a known gambler.

Foreign Aid That Makes Friends

United States aid to other nations, easily the most comprehensive in size and diversification, nevertheless is not alone. Some of the lesser aid programs sponsored by other nations would be lost in the American foreign assistance budget, but results achieved by some of them are enough to turn American aid officials green with envy.

Taiwan has provided such an example in its aid to the emerging countries of Africa. The cost of Nationalist Chinese aid to Africa is not large by any standard. One of its major programs has been to sponsor an exchange of about 400 farm experts in the last three years.

As a result of the exchange, many African states are reducing diet deficiencies by improving their rice crops. Libya now has rice growing in its desert. The small country of Dahomey has a thriving jute crop which is expected to save a half million dollars annually in foreign exchange. A demonstration crew from Taiwan was responsible. In 1960, when the perennial question of admission of Red China came before the United Nations General Assembly, nine African members voted for Peking and only two supported the Nationalist position. In the 1963 vote, the tide had turned dramatically to 14 votes for Red China and 17 opposed.

Taipei has discovered a secret of foreign assistance of which even the United States — no, especially the U. S. — frequently appears unaware. That is the knack of showing the recipient how to achieve a goal with a maximum of self-help and a minimum of outside assistance. The Nationalists admit one of the reasons for the success of their aid missions is the overly aggressive help offered the African states by Red China.

These Days

By John Chamberlain

The Double Standard

There have been reports that Richard Nixon and Nelson Rockefeller, who have apartments in the same building in New York City, have an "understanding" for the coming campaign for the Republican Presidential nomination. Each, so the speculative gossip has it, would choose to throw his strength to the other rather than surrender to a Goldwater bandwagon push.

While the reports might accurately measure the personal wishes of the two most important "center-looking" Republicans, it is hardly likely that they represent any hard-and-fast decisions at this early date. Everything connected with the Rockefeller candidacy must wait upon the outcome of the New Hampshire primary, which is still some six months off. All that can be said with certainty now is that Nixon and Rockefeller are sympathetic about many matters of policy.

They differ, however, on one important thing, and that is on this business of making unrestrained denunciations of the "radical right."

Nixon, of course, does not approve of the "radical right" any more than Rockefeller does. He thinks the Birchites have done the cause of true conservatism a good deal of harm in their insistence that the two Eisenhower Administrations represented a tacit cooperation with the cause of International Communism. Where Nixon differs with Nelson Rockefeller is on the score of the score of the proper strategy to be followed in denouncing "extremism." Nixon's big point is that nobody should practice what he calls a "double standard" in the analysis of "so-called extremist groups in the United States."

Not so long ago this columnist had a very interesting talk with Nixon on the subject of what should be put on the table for discussion between Moscow and the West as a preliminary to any peace treaty affecting the captive nations of Eastern Europe. My tour was up before we could get on the subject of domestic politics. But as I went out the door Nixon made some sarcastic comments on the matter of the "double standard" that is practiced in high political circles in "reputation" of extremist support. He had not, for example, noticed any "reputation" from the White House of Southern Congressmen who plan to filibuster on the race issue. Nor had he noticed that the New Frontier was busy cleaning its house of extremist supporters of Americans for Democratic Action. Yet the same New Frontier was busy cleaning its house of extremist supporters of Americans for Democratic Action. Yet the same New Frontier was busy cleaning its house of extremist supporters of Americans for Democratic Action. Yet the same New Frontier was busy cleaning its house of extremist supporters of Americans for Democratic Action.

Just recently Nixon's campaign against the "double standard of reputation" has gone into high gear. He has been particularly critical of what has been going on in political and journalistic treatment of what the Young Democrats have been doing in his native state of California.

"The antics of some of the more extreme California Young Republicans at the YR national convention in San Francisco," he says, "made front-page stories across the nation. On the other hand, the resolutions passed by the California Young Democrats at their annual convention went practically unnoticed nationally and even in California."

"At that convention," so Nixon continues, "the following resolutions were adopted, calling for: '1. Immediate recognition of Red China and its admission to the United Nations. '2. Resuming trade and diplomatic relations with Castro's Cuba. '3. Recognition of the Communist government of East Germany. '4. Withdrawal of all American forces from Vietnam. 'These shocking positions,' so Nixon sums up the matter, 'are straight down the Communist Party line and yet I have seen no national columnists, or any of the national Democratic leaders, call upon President Kennedy or the Democratic National Chairman to repudiate the Young Democrats of California as 'left wing extremists.'"

Nixon quite accurately notes that if the Young Democrats of California were to prevail in forcing a withdrawal of the U. S. military mission from Vietnam, "even the opponents of Diem admit it would turn that country over to the Communists."

Nixon has been prodding Republican Congressmen to keep pointing up the "basic vulnerability of the Administration wing of the Democratic Party at a time when they are hammering" Republicans for "extremism."

"A right-wing extremist," he says, is a "clear and present danger to the security of the nation because of his 'super' patriotism in the view of the liberal columnists. But the actions of the left-wing extremists, parroting the line of potential enemies of the United States, go practically unnoticed."

'I Want Him Along to Lighten the Load'

The Crusading Press And The Diem Government

SAIGON

The time was in the year 1944, a couple of months after the U. S. government first sent observers to the Chinese Communist capital at Yenan.

The occasion, which is now worth recalling, was a dinner at the Chungking press hostel for the first U. S. observer to return with on-the-spot news of that high-minded "agrarian democrat," Chairman Mao Tse-tung. Around the table the nice, virtuous American faces positively shone with innocence and happy belief.

The report from Yenan bristled with all the old familiar phrases. The Chinese Communists "wanted to be on our side, if we would only let them." They alone were "fighting the Japanese."

The atmosphere, the morale, the speckless purity and disinterestedness of Yenan were "like a wonderful cocktail after the fetid corruption of Chiang Kai-shek's government." Mao Tse-tung, "a great man and above all a humane man," would remake China in a new, more perfect image. So it went. For a cynic, listening to this discourse and watching the shining-eyed response to it, it was like taking a bath in a particularly sickening sort of goo.

There were a few American reporters in China, like the wise Arch Steele, who always kept their heads despite the intoxicating crusading atmosphere of the wartime press hostel. Yet the crusaders dominated and, one must add, sometimes seriously warped the news. And then, when the crusade was over, and they were older and wiser men, they were all very sorry about it—except for two press hostel inhabitants, Izzie and Elsie Epstein, who revealed their role as Communist agents by retreating to Peking, where they still nauseatingly hold forth.

This is not the only case in point, either. One need only recall much of the reporting from Cuba up to and including the triumph of Fidel Castro. Batista, no doubt, was every bit as bad as everyone said he was. But what stands out from that episode in American newspaper history was the display of political acumen by that far-seeing progressive, Herbert Matthews of the New York Times.

It is high time to recall these episodes of the past, which were not without their influence on the course of events; for a good many of the newspapermen in Saigon have been carrying on another of these egregious crusades for a number of years.

Unlike China, there is no Communist influence or sympathy here; and there is no one quite like Herbert Matthews either. But the general order of priorities was indicated the other day by one of the leading young crusaders, who announced that after many weeks of passion-charged anti-government stories, mingled with descriptions of the poor morale of the Vietnamese forces, he was going to pay another visit to the fighting front. "After all," he said, "there's another enemy to think about, up in North Viet Nam."

Most of what the crusaders have written has been true, or partly true—although this reporter has run into at least one province-team of U. S. officers who were deeply indignant, because they had been described as thinking the Vietnamese soldiers of their province were not putting up a good fight when they all thought the precise opposite.

But it is easy enough to paint a dark, indignant picture, without departing from the facts, if you ignore the majority of Americans who admire the Vietnamese as fighters and seek out the one U. S. officer in 10 who inevitably thinks all foreigners fight badly. (The reduction of the percentage to one in 10 marks great military progress in large-mindedness.) The same method used to report the doings of the Diem government has naturally been even more effective, since a great many of these doings have been remarkably misguided, to use the mildest possible word.

In some measure, it must be added, the crusaders have contributed to the Diem government's misguidedness. The government has asked for it, since its press relations have always been idiotic. But the constant pressure of the reportorial crusade against the government has also helped mightily to transform Diem from a courageous, quite viable national leader, into a man afflicted with galloping persecution mania, seeing plots around every corner, and therefore misjudging everything.

It is not only high time to make the foregoing points. It is also high time to ask whether American crusades to reform foreign governments really are a good idea at any time. Was Chiang, with all his defects, so much worse for the Chinese people and, above all, for the American people than Mao Tse-tung? Has Cuba gained and, above all, have we in the United States gained by the Batista-Castro exchange? What are we in Viet Nam for anyway?

Surely we are here only to win the war. And the most annoying feature of the whole situation is that we actually were winning the war this spring, until the Diem government went right around the bend with considerable help from the high-minded crusaders.

CONGRESS' RECORD — It is hard to remember a time when Congress met so long and accomplished so little. Inaction has become a way of life on Capitol Hill. The political opposition to the Kennedy administration—both GOP and within the Democratic Party — has worked the New Frontier legislative program into a corner and doubts grow daily that it can be extricated.

The Democratic leadership in Congress is apparently fearful of forcing any of Kennedy's major measures to a vote. This can only mean that a nose-count indicates to them that they would lose. Obviously, this kind of stalemate works to the political advantage of the "outs" and to the detriment of the "ins."

As long as Republicans and conservative Democrats hold the votes to defeat major measures and the administration is unwilling to force a showdown, Kennedy forces appear to the voting public to be lacking in leadership. When one thinks back to the last presidential election, when the winner promised to "get this country moving again," the charge of weak leadership becomes a potent political weapon indeed.

Polls of President Kennedy's popularity with the voters show that the lack-of-leadership label is registering around the country — and is hurting him. Some political experts are coming to the belief that he would fare better through a clear-cut legislative defeat than by what he is experiencing now. At least he would have something to speak about—a charge that the opposition was obstructing his program.

Unless Kennedy and his Capitol Hill lieutenants can get Congress moving soon the session will be written off as a complete failure, and the President will pay for it at the polls next year when he seeks re-election to the White House.

Controversial Drug Induces Hallucinations

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

Few drugs have had as stormy a history as LSD (lysergic acid diethylamide). It produces temporary illusions and hallucinations when taken in a large single dose and, in this respect, use of the compound can induce certain psychiatric states. But the chemical also is being utilized to treat psychiatric disorders such as alcoholism, obsessions, personality disturbances, and sexual deviations.

This is a puzzling and controversial form of therapy, considering that one type of madness is employed to treat another. Apparently the hallucinogenic experience has an overwhelming effect in which, according to one authority, "the individual comes to experience himself in a totally new way and finds that the age old question, "Who am I? does have a significant answer."

Best results have been obtained in the most severe cases including those in danger of becoming permanent mental invalids, lifelong neurotics, or suicides. The hallucinations apparently help the individual to remember and then erase unpleasant childhood incidents. Many of these men and women gain a meaningful insight about themselves under LSD without help from a psychiatrist.

The drug still is on the experimental list even though it has been used by physicians for 12 years. It is given as a last resort to extremely mentally sick patients. Approximately 50 per cent of chronic alcoholics are helped by a single dose. The chemical has proved disappointing in schizophrenia.

The other side of the story of LSD is less pleasant. It is being sold in the black market to irresponsible persons who get a kick out of the temporary illusions and vivid visual hallucinations. It is not habit forming but overdose is dangerous.

In addition, the sale of morning glory seeds spurred recently when the news leaked out that the food and drug administration was investigating the purchase of these seeds for hallucinogenic purposes. They have been used for a long time in Mexico by certain Indian tribes for this purpose. A may contain other poisons.

Monsanto Chemical Co. Collected $11,929 For Political War Chest

By Jack Anderson

(Editor's note—The Washington Merry-Go-Round today is written by Drew Pearson's associate, Jack Anderson.)

WASHINGTON — Now that the political money is being solicited for the 1964 election, the public should be told about some of the skeletons in the 1962 chests. For nothing has been done to plug the loopholes in the election laws and prevent the same abuses from recurring.

For instance, it is against the law for a corporation to contribute to political campaigns. Yet the executives of the Monsanto Chemical Company shelled out $11,929 in 1962 to help elect candidates to Congress who were friendly to Monsanto's pocketbook interests.

The story has been buried for a year in the campaign-spending report of a group known only as "James H. Lum, a political committee for the November 6, 1962 election."

At first glance, this appears to be a very innocuous committee to elect a political unknown named Lum to some office. But this column has now learned that Lum wasn't a candidate at all; he was the corporation executive who passed the political hat among Monsanto executives and collected.

Lum was in a good position to collect. He was then assistant to the president of Monsanto, and in most companies a word from the front office is sufficient. All told, Lum collected from $100 to $1,000 from 26 key executives of the giant chemical company.

Individual corporation executives have a right to contribute to a political campaign, though it's supposed to be a free-will contribution to a man they admire or favor.

However, the 26 Monsanto executives did not decide who should get their money, and this is where Monsanto may be in trouble under the Corrupt Practices Act — if Attorney General Kennedy ever gets around to calling a grand jury. The question of who got the money was left to a three-man committee headed by Monsanto's Washington representative, Edward Gamble. Gamble, of course, had been watching Congress, knew who had helped Monsanto in the past, who could help in the future.

Helping Your Friends

For instance, a $600 contribution went to Arkansas Congressman Oren Harris, chairman of the powerful House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, who passes on many matters affecting Monsanto. He also introduced the Harris Natural Gas Act, and Monsanto has an oil subsidiary.

Another $300 was given to West Virginia Congressman Arch Moore. Harris is a Democrat, Moore a Republican. But both had been outspoken advocates of legislation to limit the import of foreign oil.

Significantly, they happened to be singing the same tune as Monsanto's subsidiary, Lion Oil Company. Gamble admitted, when queried, that Monsanto had joined in lobbying for oil import restrictions through the Independent Oil Producers' Association.

The biggest contribution, $1,000, was donated to Missouri Congressman Tom Curtis, a Republican, who represents Monsanto's home district in the St. Louis area and who has championed Monsanto causes.

He vigorously opposed the late Sen. Estes Kefauver's efforts to reduce drug prices by breaking up the drug manufacturers' pricing and patent practices. Monsanto happens to manufacture drug ingredients.

Senate Republican leader Everett McKinley Dirksen, who led the fight against Kefauver's drug reforms, received $600 from the Monsanto political pool.

Missouri Senator Edward Long,

a Democrat, got $300. He had introduced a bill to subsidize research for new forest products and Monsanto owns several plants and factories which produce wood products.

After he got elected—with the help of Monsanto money—Sen. Long turned round and voted against his old friend, the late Estes Kefauver, when Kefauver was urging a probe of drug prices in South America. The drug companies did not want this probe and Long voted with them and against his friend.

Monsanto executives hedged their political bets and also contributed $500 to Long's Republican opponent, Crosby Kemper.

Questioned by this column, Gamble acknowledged that his three-man committee had "decided to give to people who were friends . . . to Congressmen and Senators in whom we had respect."

He described the $11,929 political slush fund as "something like a United Fund."

He added carefully: "We went to great pains in order to do what we thought was perfectly legal."

Gamble was vague about who had originated and organized the fund.

"A group of us thought it was a good idea," he explained laconically.

He insisted that the 26 executives had been subjected to no pressure from Monsanto, that they had donated whatever they wished out of their own pockets.

Monsanto's general counsel ruled, he said, that this got around the Corrupt Practices Act.

Language Of Love

By John Crosby

A bunch of the boys were talking about the language of love the other day and old Bainsfeather pointed out that the very nature of the French language and of the English language told a lot about the practices of love in those countries.

"Now you take the word yes, for example," said old Bainsfeather. "When a French girl says yes, she doesn't say yes; she says oui. It's like wow! That's a very affirmative word, oui. You pull the lips back and let her rip, oui!"

He rubbed his cheek a moment reflectively, not wishing to push the thought. Then he said: "Now let us consider the word yes. You can't even say yes—if you say it properly—without gritting your teeth. When a girl says yes, she's in effect got her teeth clenched. She's saying, 'Oh, all right, for God's sake, if you insist.' It's that kind of word, it's a sibilant word. The girl's hissing at you, really."

Old Bainsfeather filled his pipe, tamped it down, took a long pull. Then he said: "Now let us consider the word no. As I say, the French oui is a much more affirmative word than the English yes. On the other hand, the English no is a much more negative word than the French non. When a girl says no, she opens her mouth and says, 'No!' It comes with a built-in exclamation point. 'There's something awfully no about no. Now you take the French non. You don't exactly hit that final n, but you think it; you touch it lightly. The tongue curls under. When a French girl says non, there's a strong element of perhaps in there. The air is charged with maybe, maybe non. Comme ci, comme ça. The door on the discussion is not closed."

He thought it over for a long moment. Then he added: "Have you ever seen a French girl saying non. Her mouth is in a perfect position to be kissed."

Old Bainsfeather's pipe had gone out. He relit it, puffed a moment, then he said: "Now let us pass on to the word—very important in the history of amorous dalliance—help! Now the English help is a hell of a word."

If a girl really wants to be let alone and she has a good strong pair of lungs and she rears back and yells help!—well, the welkin rings! You can hear it for miles! It's enough to scare an aggressor out of his head."

He let it sink in a moment. "Now, consider the French expression for help. Au secours! Have you ever tried calling out au secours? I once twisted my ankle in the French Alps and I called, 'Au secours!' Didn't travel five feet. How could it? You call out au secours and you wind up with your mouth in a neat little o. Again, a French girl calling out au secours doesn't sound or look at all as if she wants help; she's got her lips puckered up again as if she wants to be kissed.

"These differences in language," he concluded, "all tell a great deal about the nature, the attitude, the quality, and the practice of love in the two countries."

We all looked at him with admiration. There's no doubt he'd formulated his theorems only after long, hard thought. He hadn't rushed into this thing. He'd been properly Anglo-Saxon and careful. But there was the rub, the flaw in the thing. Smathers, the sourpuss, was the first to point it out.

"Bainsfeather," he snorted, "do you know any French girls?"

"No," said Bainsfeather tranquilly.

"Do you know any English girls?"

"No," said Bainsfeather.

"Know any girls at all?"

"No," said Bainsfeather calmly.

"Well, then, how in the devil did you arrive at these ridiculous conclusions?"

"Pure exercise in intellect," said old Bainsfeather, puffing away at his pipe tranquilly. "Like Einstein arrived at the theorem E=mc². Einstein arrived at his theory in the lofty recesses of pure thought. So did I. We both leave the practical application and the proof to other lesser mortals."

Flanagan bumped into his pal Dooley just outside the Whirlaway bar. Neither distinguished citizen was feeling the slightest pain. "Flanagan, me boy," said Dooley, "you're just in time to come to McGrath's wake with me."

"A fine idea," allowed Flanagan, "but I never had the pleasure of your friend McGrath's acquaintance."

Dooley assured Flanagan that this made no difference whatever, and the two reeled into McGrath's homestead where a rousing wake was proceeding full-blast. Flanagan just made the grand piano in the front parlor when his legs gave way beneath him. As he sank down, his jaw gave the ivory keys of the piano a terrific jolt. He looked at them wide-eyed, then turned to his friend Dooley, and said in tones of soft admiration, "It's true that I never saw McGrath in real life, but I must say he had a wonderful set of teeth!"

Foreign Aid That Makes Friends

United States aid to other nations, easily the most comprehensive in size and diversification, nevertheless is not alone. Some of the lesser aid programs sponsored by other nations would be lost in the American foreign assistance budget, but results achieved by some of them are enough to turn American aid officials green with envy.

Taiwan has provided such an example in its aid to the emerging countries of Africa. The cost of Nationalist Chinese aid to Africa is not large by any standard. One of its major programs has been to sponsor an exchange of about 400 farm experts in the last three years.

As a result of the exchange, many African states are reducing diet deficiencies by improving their rice crops. Libya now has rice growing in its desert. The small country of Dahomey has a thriving jute crop which is expected to save a half million dollars annually in foreign exchange. A demonstration crew from Taiwan was responsible. In 1960, when the perennial question of admission of Red China came before the United Nations General Assembly, nine African members voted for Peking and only two supported the Nationalist position. In the 1963 vote, the tide had turned dramatically to 14 votes for Red China and 17 opposed.

Taipei has discovered a secret of foreign assistance of which even the United States — no, especially the U. S. — frequently appears unaware. That is the knack of showing the recipient how to achieve a goal with a maximum of self-help and a minimum of outside assistance. The Nationalists admit one of the reasons for the success of their aid missions is the overly aggressive help offered the African states by Red China.

These Days

The Double Standard

There have been reports that Richard Nixon and Nelson Rockefeller, who have apartments in the same building in New York City, have an "understanding" for the coming campaign for the Republican Presidential nomination. Each, so the speculative gossip has it, would choose to throw his strength to the other rather than surrender to a Goldwater bandwagon push.

While the reports might accurately measure the personal wishes of the two most important "center-looking" Republicans, it is hardly likely that they represent any hard-and-fast decisions at this early date. Everything connected with the Rockefeller candidacy must wait upon the outcome of the New Hampshire primary, which is still some six months off. All that can be said with certainty now is that Nixon and Rockefeller are simpatico about many matters of policy.

They differ, however, on one important thing, and that is on this business of making unrestrained denunciations of the "radical right."

Obviously, this kind of stalemate works the political advantage of the "outs" and to the detriment of the "ins."

As long as Republicans and conservative Democrats hold the votes to defeat major measures and the administration is unwilling to force a showdown, Kennedy forces appear to the voting public to be lacking in leadership. When one thinks back to the last presidential election, when the winner promised to "get this country moving again," the charge of weak leadership becomes a potent political weapon indeed.

Polls of President Kennedy's popularity with the voters show that the lack-of-leadership label is registering around the country — and is hurting him. Some political experts are coming to the belief that he would fare better through a clear-cut legislative defeat than by what he is experiencing now. At least he would have something to speak about—a charge that the opposition was obstructing his program.

Unless Kennedy and his Capitol Hill lieutenants can get Congress moving soon the session will be written off as a complete failure, and the President will pay for it at the polls next year when he seeks re-election to the White House.

Controversial Drug Induces Hallucinations

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

Few drugs have had as stormy a history as LSD (lysergic acid diethylamide). It produces temporary illusions and hallucinations when taken in a large single dose and, in this respect, use of the compound can induce certain psychiatric states. But the chemical also is being utilized to treat psychiatric disorders such as alcoholism, obsessions, personality disturbances, and sexual deviations.

This is a puzzling and controversial form of therapy, considering that one type of madness is employed to treat another. Apparently the hallucinogenic experience has an overwhelming effect in which the individual comes to experience himself in a totally new way and finds that the age old question, "Who am I? does have a significant answer."

Best results have been obtained in the most severe cases including those in danger of becoming permanent mental invalids, lifelong neurotics, or suicides. The hallucinations apparently help the individual to remember and then erase unpleasant childhood incidents. Many of these men and women gain a meaningful insight about themselves under LSD without help from a psychiatrist. The drug still is on the experimental list even though it has been used by physicians for 12 years. It is given as a last resort to extremely mentally sick patients. Approximately 50 per cent of chronic alcoholics are helped by a single dose. The chemical has proved disappointing in schizophrenia.

The other side of the story of LSD is less pleasant. It is being sold in the black market to irresponsible persons who get a kick out of the temporary illusions and vivid visual hallucinations. It is not habit forming but overdosage is dangerous.

In addition, the sale of morning glory seeds spurred recently when the news leaked out that the food and drug administration was investigating the purchase of these seeds for hallucinogenic purposes. They have been used for a long time in Mexico by certain Indian tribes for this purpose. A may contain other poisons.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Flanagan bumped into his pal Dooley just outside the Whirlaway bar. Neither distinguished citizen was feeling the slightest pain. "Flanagan, me boy," said Dooley, "you're just in time to come to McGrath's wake with me."

"A fine idea," allowed Flanagan, "but I never had the pleasure of your friend McGrath's acquaintance."

Dooley assured Flanagan that this made no difference whatever, and the two reeled into McGrath's homestead where a rousing wake was proceeding full-blast. Flanagan just made the grand piano in the front parlor when his legs gave way beneath him. As he sank down, his jaw gave the ivory keys of the piano a terrific jolt. He looked at them wide-eyed, then turned to his friend Dooley, and said in tones of soft admiration, "It's true that I never saw McGrath in real life, but I must say he had a wonderful set of teeth!"

Monsanto Chemical Co. Collected $11,929 For Political War Chest

By Jack Anderson

(Editor's note—The Washington Merry-Go-Round today is written by Drew Pearson's associate, Jack Anderson.)

WASHINGTON — Now that the political money is being solicited for the 1964 election, the public should be told about some of the skeletons in the 1962 chests. For nothing has been done to plug the loopholes in the election laws and prevent the same abuses from recurring.

For instance, it is against the law for a corporation to contribute to political campaigns. Yet the executives of the Monsanto Chemical Company shelled out $11,929 in 1962 to help elect candidates to Congress who were friendly to Monsanto's pocketbook interests.

The story has been buried for a year in the campaign-spending report of a group known only as "James H. Lum, a political committee for the November 6, 1962 election."

At first glance, this appears to be a very innocuous committee to elect a political unknown named Lum to some office. But this column has now learned that Lum wasn't a candidate at all; he was the corporation executive who passed the political hat among Monsanto executives and collected.

Lum was in a good position to collect. He was then assistant to the president of Monsanto, and in most companies a word from the front office is sufficient. All told, Lum collected from $100 to $1,000 from 26 key executives of the giant chemical company.

Individual corporation executives have a right to contribute to a political campaign, though it's supposed to be a free-will contribution to a man they admire or favor.

However, the 26 Monsanto executives did not decide who should get their money, and this is where Monsanto may be in trouble under the Corrupt Practices Act — if Attorney General Kennedy ever gets around to calling a grand jury. The question of who got the money was left to a three-man committee headed by Monsanto's Washington representative, Edward Gamble. Gamble, of course, had been watching Congress, knew who had helped Monsanto in the past, who could help in the future.

Helping Your Friends

For instance, a $600 contribution went to Arkansas Congressman Oren Harris, chairman of the powerful House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, who passes on many matters affecting Monsanto. He also introduced the Harris Natural Gas Act, and Monsanto has an oil subsidiary.

Another $300 was given to West Virginia Congressman Arch Moore. Harris is a Democrat, Moore a Republican. But both had been outspoken advocates of legislation to limit the import of foreign oil.

Significantly, they happened to be singing the same tune as Monsanto's subsidiary, Lion Oil Company. Gamble admitted, when queried, that Monsanto had joined in lobbying for oil import restrictions through the Independent Oil Producers' Association.

The biggest contribution, $1,000, was donated to Missouri Congressman Tom Curtis, a Republican, who represents Monsanto's home district in the St. Louis area and who has championed Monsanto causes.

He vigorously opposed the late Sen. Estes Kefauver's efforts to reduce drug prices by breaking up the drug manufacturers' pricing and patent practices. Monsanto happens to manufacture drug ingredients.

Senate Republican leader Everett McKinley Dirksen, who led the fight against Kefauver's drug reforms, received $600 from the Monsanto political pool.

Missouri Senator Edward Long,

a Democrat, got $300. He had introduced a bill to subsidize research for new forest products and Monsanto owns several plants and factories which produce wood products.

After he got elected—with the help of Monsanto money—Sen. Long turned round and voted against his old friend, the late Estes Kefauver, when Kefauver was urging a probe of drug prices in South America. The drug companies did not want this probe and Long voted with them and against his friend.

Monsanto executives hedged their political bets and also contributed $500 to Long's Republican opponent, Crosby Kemper.

Questioned by this column, Gamble acknowledged that his three-man committee had "decided to give to people who were friends . . . to Congressmen and Senators in whom we had respect."

He described the $11,929 political slush fund as "something like a United Fund."

He added carefully: "We went to great pains in order to do what we thought was perfectly legal."

Gamble was vague about who had originated and organized the fund.

"A group of us thought it was a good idea," he explained laconically.

He insisted that the 26 executives had been subjected to no pressure from Monsanto, that they had donated whatever they wished out of their own pockets.

Monsanto's general counsel ruled, he said, that this got around the Corrupt Practices Act.

Language Of Love

By John Crosby

A bunch of the boys were talking about the language of love the other day and old Bainsfeather pointed out that the very nature of the French language and of the English language told a lot about the practices of love in those countries.

"Now you take the word yes, for example," said old Bainsfeather. "When a French girl says yes, she doesn't say yes; she says oui. It's wee! It's like wow! That's a very affirmative word, oui. You pull the lips back and let her rip, oui!"

He rubbed his cheek a moment reflectively, not wishing to push the thought. Then he said: "Now let us consider the word yes. You can't even say yes—if you say it properly — without gritting your teeth. When a girl says yes, she's in effect got her teeth clenched. She's saying, 'Oh, all right, for God's sake, if you insist.' It's that kind of word, it's a sibilant word. The girl's hissing at you, really."

Old Bainsfeather filled his pipe, tamped it down, took a long pull. Then he said: "Now let us consider the word no. As I say, the French oui is a much more affirmative word than the English yes. On the other hand, the English no is a much more negative word than the French non. When a girl says no, she opens her mouth and says, 'No!' It comes with a built-in exclamation point. There's something awfully no about no. Now you take the French non. You don't exactly hit that final n, but you think it; you touch it lightly. The tongue curls under. When a French girl says non, there's a strong element of perhaps in there. The air is charged with maybe, maybe not. Comme ci, comme ca. The door on the discussion is not closed."

He thought it over for a long moment. Then he added: "Have you ever seen a French girl saying non. Her mouth is in a perfect position to be kissed."

Old Bainsfeather's pipe had gone out. He reit it, puffed a moment, then he said: "Now let us pass on to the word—very important in the history of amorous dalliance—help! Now the English help is a hell of a word."

If a girl really wants to be let alone and she has a good strong pair of lungs and she rears back and yells help!—well, the welkin rings! You can hear it for miles! It's enough to scare an aggressor out of his head."

He let it sink in a moment. "Now, consider the French expression for help. Au secours! Have you ever tried calling out au secours? I once twisted my ankle in the French Alps and I called, 'Au secours!' Didn't travel five feet. How could it? You call out au secours and you wind up with your mouth in a neat little o. Again, a French girl calling out au secours doesn't sound or look at all as if she wants help; she's got her lips puckered up again as if she wants to be kissed."

"These differences in language," he concluded, "all tell a great deal about the nature, the attitude, the quality, and the practice of love in the two countries."

We all looked at him with admiration. There's no doubt he'd formulated his theorems only after long, hard thought. He hadn't rushed into this thing. He'd been properly Anglo-Saxon and careful. But there was the rub, the flaw in the thing. Smathers, the sourpuss, was the first to point it out.

"Bainsfeather," he snorted, "do you know any French girls?" "No," said Bainsfeather tranquilly.

"Do you know any English girls?"

"No," said Bainsfeather.

"Know any girls at all?"

"No," said Bainsfeather calmly.

"Well, then, how in the devil did you arrive at these ridiculous conclusions?"

"Pure exercise in intellect," said old Bainsfeather, puffing away at his pipe tranquilly. "Like Einstein arrived at the theorem E=mc². Einstein arrived at his theory in the lofty recesses of pure thought. So did I. We both leave the practical application and the proof to other lesser mortals."

Welfare Dept. Probe Resumes In W. Virginia

Cost Of Drugs To Be Aired

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — State Welfare Commissioner W. Bernard Smith and state Road Commissioner Burl Sawyers will be asked to appear before the legislature's Joint Committee on Government and Finance in October.

The committee, studying the operation of the Welfare Department, wants to discuss with Smith possible ways of reducing the cost of drugs prescribed for welfare recipients. Such drugs cost $1.4 million during fiscal 1962-63, out of a total of $9 million paid out by the department for medical expenses.

The committee, which opened a two-day session Monday, discussed the possibility of having drug prescriptions for the needy written with the generic names of drugs, rather than the more expensive brand names in an effort to reduce costs.

The committee, ordered during a special session of the legislature last spring to study the Welfare Department, also asked for county-by-county breakdowns on welfare medical costs by the next meeting.

Del. Carroll W. Casto, R-Mason, said this would help the committee to determine if there are any "areas of abuse" in medical payments.

At the suggestion of Sen. William Moreland, D-Monongalia, the committee also will study the use of mobile clinics by the state Health Department.

Moreland said such clinics might have some value in treatment of certain welfare cases.

Sawyers will be asked to bring the committee up to date on road-building plans, particularly on the Interstate highway work. This is in line with his appearance before the 1963 legislature at which time he agreed to make periodic reports to the lawmakers.

The interim committee's next meeting was tentatively set for Oct. 21-22.

Subcommittees studying state banking and related laws and group medical practice will meet Tuesday, along with a 15-member citizens' committee authorized by the 1963 legislature to study salaries of state employees.

LITTLE ORLEANS — Len. Twigg, postmistress, announced yesterday that rural mail carriers and star route contractors will begin distributing acreage survey cards to farmer-patrons along their routes, Wednesday.

The annual crop acreage survey, she said, provides the Maryland-Delaware Crop Reporting Service at College Park, Md., with basic information for estimating the acreage of important crops grown in this area.

This is a sample survey, she said, and not all farmers will receive the cards. However, each farmer-patron receiving a card is urged to fill it out completely at once and drop it in the mail box.

Mt. Savage To Host Valley; Meeting Is Set Wednesday

The Western Maryland Inter-scholastic Soccer League will launch its 37th campaign one week from today with Beall High School's champions entertaining the Flintstone Aggies and Valley High's Black Knights playing at Mt. Savage.

Two of the five teams in the league last season were undefeated. Beall won the championship with a 5-0-3 record and Valley was the runner-up with 3-0-5 followed by Mt. Savage 8-3-2, Bruce 2-5-1 and Flintstone 1-6-1.

The coaches are the same as in 1962, namely, Edward C. Finzel, Beall; John C. Meyers, Valley; John Thomas, Mt. Savage; Leonard Ritchie, Bruce, and Orville W. Jackson, Flintstone.

Since the league's inception in 1921, Bruce High has won the most titles, 12 include a tie with Valley in 1958. Valley has won eight times, including a tie, and Beall has finished on top eight times. Mt. Savage and Flintstone have never won a soccer title.

John C. Meyers of Valley has had more winners than any other coach — a total of 10. His Valley teams have won titles outright and tied for the honors once and he also had two winners at old Central High. John "Chip" Grindle had eight championship teams at Bruce and "Ebbie" Finzel had his 7th winner at Beall last year.

A previous acceptance was received from the owner of Espresso, an outstanding English handicap horse. Russia's Zabeg is the only other horse to represent a country three times in this classic.

Kelso, second to Round Table in the all-time world money winning list with earnings of $1,415,197, finished second in two previous international outings — to America's TV Lark in 1961 and Match II of France last year.

Boston Rehires Manager Pesky For Next Year

Sox Started Strong But Are Now In 7th

BOSTON (UPI) — Boston Red Sox Manager Johnny Pesky, who guided his underdogs to a few minutes of glory this year as American League leaders, has signed for the 1964 season, it was announced Monday.

The signing was announced by club vice president Mike Higgins after a conference between Pesky, Higgins and Red Sox owner Tom Yawkey over plans for next year. Details of the talk were not disclosed.

Pesky, in his first year as a major league manager, had the Red Sox battling for American League leadership through June and in second place as late as July 15.

The Red Sox, who end their season Sunday in a home game with the Los Angeles Angels, went into a mid-season slump and now are in seventh place.

The early surge caused the club's attendance to climb more than 200,000 over last year's total of 733,000, team officials reported.

ACADEMIC ATHLETE

KANSAS CITY (UPI) — Hank Stram, head coach of the Kansas City Chiefs in the American Football League, won the 1943 Big Ten medal awarded annually to the student best combining athletics and scholarship. Stram was a football and baseball star at Purdue.

A record 10,000 persons turned out for the United Football League game to witness a brilliant performance by quarterback Ivan Tomicic.

End John Greiner connected on two of Tomicic's aeriels for touchdowns while Tomicic hit the Ironmen's other end, Tommy Bland, for 33 yards in the final stanza.

The Blazers' only tally came on a 53-yard pass play from Bob Ricci to Jerry O'Neil that put the ball on the one-yard line. Quarterback Larry Harp went in to score.

TENNIS POPULAR

NEW YORK (UPI) — It is estimated that there are 7,500,000 tennis players in the United States, with the number increasing by a half million each year.

Hershey Player's Suspension Lifted

NEW YORK (UPI) — President James Palmer of the American Hockey League Monday lifted the indefinite suspension handed Marc Rheaume of the Hershey Bears for pushing a referee in last season's post-season playoffs.

Rheaume was suspended and fined $325 for pushing referee John Ashley in the fifth game of the final playoff series against the Buffalo Bisons, April 28. He since was sold to the Montreal Canadiens.

Tiger Gives Up British Title

LONDON (AP)—Dick Tiger of Nigeria, world middleweight boxing champion, gave up his British Empire title Monday "because I do not want the Empire championship to remain stagnant."

Bobby Diamond, Tiger's representative in Britain, said: "Tiger thinks that other boxers should be given a chance of winning the Empire title."

Rheaume was suspended and fined $325 for pushing referee John Ashley in the fifth game of the final playoff series against the Buffalo Bisons, April 28. He since was sold to the Montreal Canadiens.

LONG PUNT

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI)—Dick Crayne, an Iowa fullback, kicked a 102-yard punt in a 1934 game against Indiana. He had a 35 mile-per-hour wind at his back at the time.

Maris To Return To Lineup Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — Roger Maris, sidelined for two weeks with a back ailment, will return to the line-up Tuesday night when the New York Yankees meet the Los Angeles Angels.

The veteran outfielder was sent back to New York for rest and examinations Sept. 16 while the Yanks were out West. It was feared he might be lost for the World Series.

Because of injuries to Maris, Mickey Mantle, Tom Tresh and other first stringers, the Yanks have been able to field their complete regular team only eight times this season.

Officials To Meet

Braves And Athletics To Remain In Milwaukee, Kansas City

Recent Reports Had N.L. Team Peady To Leave

Club's Statement Dispels Confusion Created By Rumors

By DAN HANLEY
United Press International
MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The Braves, admitting they have received "attractive offers" to relocate their National League franchise, said Monday the team will stay in Milwaukee where baseball attendance records were broken before a fan slump set in.

"The Braves will be in Milwaukee today, tomorrow, next year and as long as we are welcome," said President and General Manager John McHale. He issued a club policy statement which he said was intended to dispel the "confusion" created by many rumors and speculations concerning the future location of the team.

A number of reports in recent weeks said the Braves, who came to Milwaukee from Boston in 1953, were planning to leave here at the end of the year. Cities mentioned as a possible new home for the Braves included Atlanta, Ga., San Diego, Calif., Oakland, Calif., and Seattle, Wash.

"Normally," said McHale, "the results of a baseball operation and plans for the future are discussed at the end of the season. However, in this case, the Braves' management feels that the air should be cleared."

"It is quite natural for cities seeking major league franchises to solicit the interests of clubs whose attendance has declined, just as Milwaukee did in 1953. Attractive offers have been made to us by several cities, but our decision is to remain in Milwaukee."

The Braves were owned by New England construction baron Lou Perini when the team was moved to Milwaukee. In 1954 the Braves became the first club in their league to go over the 2,000,000 attendance mark for a season. The Braves also had two-million-plus years for the 1955, 1956 and 1957 seasons. For five other seasons in Milwaukee they drew more than one-million.

Last year, when only 767,221 fans turned out, it was the first time the Braves hadn't reached the million mark.

Southern Cal, Alabama Rated 1-2 In AP Grid Poll

Navy In 5th Place, Georgia Tech, Pitt Placed 9th, 10th

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Alabama and Oklahoma moved up behind powerful support from all sections of the country Tuesday to challenge Southern California for the No. 1 ranking among college football teams.

The Southern Cal Trojans, undefeated national champions in 1962 and a solid pre-season pick to repeat, clung to the top position in The Associated Press poll—but precariously—after squeaking past Colorado 14-0 in their opening game.

Alabama, the best of the colleges in 1961, was just a hair away in second after smothering Georgia 32-7 and the Oklahoma Sooners climbed into third place—up a notch—on the strength of a 31-14 victory over Clemson.

Trojans Play Oklahoma Southern Cal and Oklahoma clash Saturday in the television game at Los Angeles in a battle that has definite championship overtones while Alabama strives to improve its status against unimposing Tulane at Tuscaloosa.

The first week's principal casualties were second-ranked Mississippi, held to a scoreless tie by Memphis State, and tenth-ranked Washington, upset 10-7 by the Air Force Academy.

Both dropped completely from the Top Ten with two newcomers—Georgia Tech and Pittsburgh—making their appearance as the Nos. 9 and 10 teams, respectively.

Georgia Tech beat Florida in a televised opener a week ago and sat it out last week-end. Pitt tumbled UCLA in an intercollegiate tussle 20-0 last Friday night.

Navy Makes Big Gain Navy made the greatest gain, climbing from ninth to fifth after routing a massive and highly-rated West Virginia team 51-7. The Midshipmen were just behind Texas, which moved from fifth to fourth after trimming Tulane 21-0. Then followed, as the lower five: Wisconsin, Northwestern, Arkansas, Georgia Tech and Pitt.

SPECIAL RATE NEW YORK (UPI) — All the 11 major U.S. airlines offer golfers a special rate for transporting their equipment on domestic flights, instead of charging normal excess baggage rates.

LADY PITCHER ORANGE, Calif. (UPI) — Bertha Ragan, considered the outstanding woman softball pitcher of all time, hurled 99 no-hit, no-run games during her career, including six perfect games.

NEVER TOO OLD SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Frank (Lefty) O'Doul went to bat one time during the 1956 season at the age of 58 and delivered a triple for Vancouver of the Pacific Coast League.

Wisconsin, the defending Big Ten king, leaped over Northwestern's head apparently because the voters were more impressed by the Badgers' 41-0 victory over Western Michigan than the Wildcats' 23-12 decision over Missouri. Arkansas, 21-0 winner over Oklahoma State, was the only team to stand still—in eighth place.

Buford Selected Rookie Of The Year In International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Don Buford of Indianapolis, a pint-sized switch-hitting third baseman who may be the Chicago White Sox answer to Albie Pearson, Monday was selected as the International League's "Rookie of the Year."

Buford received 16 of 26 votes from league sportswriters to outpoll runner-up Richie Allen, Arkansas outfielder; Willie Smith, Syracuse lefthanded pitcher; and Bill Roman, Syracuse's first baseman. Allen was named on five ballots, Smith, four and Roman, one.

Buford, a 26-year-old White Sox farmhand, won the league batting title in a walk with a .336 average; collected 206 hits, the leagues highest since Sam Jethroe's 207 for Montreal in 1949; had the most doubles, 41, and runs scored, 114.

Buford, a former football star at the University of Southern California, is similar in stature to Pearson, the slugging outfielder for the Los Angeles Angels.

Colts' Don Shula Plays Put-And-Take With Injured Berry

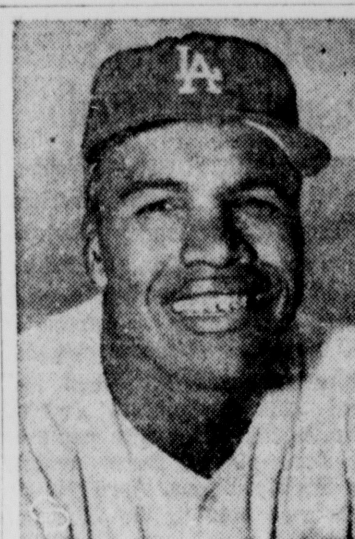

BALTIMORE (AP)—Coach Don Shula of the Baltimore Colts played put-and-take again Monday with his colleagues in the National Football League.

He put offensive end Raymond Berry on the waiver list with the notation injured. If another team claims Berry, whose left shoulder was dislocated in Sunday's game at San Francisco, Shula will withdraw him.

The Baltimore coach wasn't too hopeful. He tried it last week after Halfback Lenny Moore had his appendix removed. Someone claimed him and Shula had to carry him on the roster even though unable to play.

"We probably won't get away with it with Raymond either," Shula figured, "but we're certainly going to try."

If he fails, the Colts will have only 35 active players, two under the limit, for Sunday's game at Green Bay.

LEADS N. L. — Tommy Davis, of the Dodgers, leads the hitters of the National League with an average of .323 as the season nears the close. Dick Groat of St. Louis and Orlando Cepeda of the Giants are tied for second place at .320 followed by Roberto Clemente, Pirates .319. Hank Aaron, Milwaukee .318 and Vada Pinson, Cincinnati .317. Groat won the title in 1960 and Davis in 1962.

Detroit Trims Senators, 4-1

Cash And Colavito Get Circuit Belts

DETROIT (UPI) — Rocky Colavito and Norm Cash slugged home runs Monday to lead the Detroit Tigers to a 4-1 victory over the Washington Senators behind the five-hit pitching of Phil Regan and Willie Smith before a "crowd" of 674.

Cash blasted his 26th homer of the season in the first inning to tie the game 1-1 and Detroit took a 2-1 lead in the fourth when Bubba Phillips and Gus Triandos hit back to back doubles.

Colavito then slammed his 22nd homer with a man on in the fifth inning to complete the Tiger scoring. Bennie Daniels pitched the first six innings and suffered the loss. He is 5-10 for the season.

Regan had a three-hitter going into the ninth inning when Ed Brinkman and John Kennedy singled to cut the deficit to one. A called pinch hitter Minnie Minoso on a ground ball strike. Regan is now Detroit's top winner with a 15-8 record.

American Loop Club Seeks New Lease On Park

Finley Had Hinted He'd Move Club; A's In Red Every Year

KANSAS CITY (UPI)—An attorney for the Kansas City Athletics met with city officials Monday and pledged that the American League team would remain here.

Thomas Keane, attorney for club owners Charles O. Finley, said he would return here Oct. 7 and 8 to discuss a new lease on Municipal Stadium.

City Manager Carleton F. Sharpe emphasized in Monday's meeting that the new contract would have no "escape clause."

The Athletics' current lease on the stadium expires Oct. 15. Finley balked at signing a new contract after the present city council voided a pact he signed with the recently replaced council. It was similar to the $1-a-year contract the Kansas City Chiefs of the American Football League have with the city.

Finley hinted last season he would like to move the Athletics to the Dallas-Fort Worth area. This year, there were reports he wanted to move to Oakland, Calif. or Atlanta.

In the meeting which Keane described as amiable, the attorney told Sharpe and other city officials that one million attendance was needed for the Athletics to break even. He said Finley has lost money every year he has been here and estimated this year's cash loss at between $150,000 and $250,000.

Hearing On Motion For Post's New Trial Is Set For Oct. 16

ATLANTA (UPI) — Federal Judge Lewis Morgan Monday set Oct. 16 for a hearing on a motion for a new trial by the Saturday Evening Post in the $3,060,000 libel judgment awarded former Georgia Athletic Director Wallace Butts.

The Post asked for a new trial on grounds that the judgment—one of the highest ever awarded by a jury in a libel suit—was "excessive."

The magazine also contends that a witness in the trial "testified falsely," that the jury was prejudiced and that Morgan erred in refusing to permit testimony in connection with Butts' non-university activities.

The jury awarded Butts the $3-million judgment on Aug. 20 after a trial that lasted nearly two weeks.

Butts had contended that the Post libeled him in an article in the March 23rd edition that said Butts conspired with Alabama coach Paul (Bear) Bryant to rig last year's Alabama-Georgia game.

Butts had asked for $10 million in damages.

Mauch Throws Tantrum After Phillies' Defeat

Gene Tosses Food And Ruins Suits Of Two Players

HOUSTON (AP)—Gene Mauch, manager of the Philadelphia Phillies threw food around the Philadelphia club room Sunday night after his team lost a 2-1 decision to the Houston Colts, the Houston Chronicle said Monday.

Mauch told the Philadelphia players they were "Little Leaguers."

Mauch ruined dress suits of Wes Covington and Tony Gonzalez when he emptied a pan of gravy containing sperberis, the paper added.

Before leaving Houston for the West Coast, the Philadelphia manager told the two players he would buy them new suits. They were forced to call their luggage.

Dr. Ostich Unhurt As Car Spins Out Of Control At 75 MPH

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (UPI)—Dr. Nathan Ostich's jet-powered racer "Flying Caduceus" spun out of control Monday while making runs on Utah's Salt Flats but the California physician climbed unhurt from the undamaged vehicle.

Ostich's car spun two and a half times while making trial runs in preparation for an assault on the world land speed record.

The West Covina, Calif., physician was making a return run from south to north when the needle-nosed racer went into a spin on the wet salt. Seconds before he had been clocked at 322 miles per hour and was slowing down when the machine began to spin. His estimated speed at the time was 75 miles per hour.

Members of the crew said Ostich apparently applied the brakes too hard and the vehicle went into a spin. It hit a small board marker on the straightaway and one tire was gashed. Damage was minor. However, crew members planned to change the tire and check the alignment before resuming runs again tomorrow.

Report About Minors Betting At Timonium Is Denied By Sloan

BALTIMORE (AP)—A Maryland Racing Commission official made a trip to Hagerstown Monday to remind race track officials there of parimutuel regulations.

Commission officials said, however, reports that minors had been betting at the Timonium race track were exaggerated.

Chairman Livie Sr., commission chairman said the group's secretary, James A. Callahan, visited the Hagerstown track which is beginning an 18-day meeting to notify the track personally of regulations against betting by minors.

The issue was raised after the chairman of the Baltimore County Council, Samuel A. Green Jr., said he observed minors betting at the Timonium track. Robert Sloan, Timonium's parimutuel manager, denied the charge.

Green commented, "possibly a state-wide law is necessary to correct this problem," and urged the racing commission to look into the matter.

Market Receives Worst Setback In Nearly Month

NEW YORK (UPI)—The combination of profit taking and a spotty news backdrop Monday helped trigger the worst stock market setback in nearly a month.

Dow-Jones rails declined 1.04, partly reflecting a drop of 2 1/4 in Norfolk & Western. A decline of a point in Panhandle accounted for part of the 0.65 dip in the utility average.

San Marino Signs

LONDON (UPI)—Frederico Bigli, prime minister of San Marino, flew to Moscow Monday to sign the partial nuclear test ban treaty. He said it was "a moral gesture." San Marino, a 38-square-mile enclave in Italy, is one of the smallest republics in the world. Its biggest weapon is a rusty cannon that has not been fired in more than 300 years.

In a single colony of termites, there may be more than three million of them.

Figure 1: A 6x6 grid showing the distribution of 1000 simulated individuals across 36 cells. The grid is divided into four quadrants by a vertical line between columns 3 and 4 and a horizontal line between rows 3 and 4. The top-left quadrant (rows 1-3, columns 1-3) contains cells 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, and 62. The top-right quadrant (rows 1-3, columns 4-6) contains cells 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, and 68. The bottom-left quadrant (rows 4-6, columns 1-3) contains cells 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, and 74. The bottom-right quadrant (rows 4-6, columns 4-6) contains cells 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, and 80. The grid is labeled with row and column indices (1-6) on the left and bottom. The grid is labeled with cell numbers (57-80) in the top-left and bottom-right quadrants. The grid is labeled with cell numbers (61-64) in the top-right and bottom-left quadrants. The grid is labeled with cell numbers (63-64) in the bottom-left and bottom-right quadrants. The grid is labeled with cell numbers (61-64) in the top-right and bottom-left quadrants. The grid is labeled with cell numbers (63-64) in the bottom-left and bottom-right quadrants.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, length and formation of the words are all hints.

Each day the code letters are different.

Garrett Firm Bids Low On $125,000 Issue

Frostburg Water Bonds Being Sold

A low bid of 2.876 per cent interest on a $125,000 10-year water improvement bond issue was accepted last night by the Mayor and Council of Frostburg.

The successful bidder was Robert Garrett and Son, Baltimore investment bankers. On their interest rate Frostburg will pay $17,989 interest during the 10-year life of the bond issue.

Next to the low bidder was Alex Brown and Son, also of Baltimore, which bid 2.9636 per cent total interest on the $125,000 issue. That would have cost Frostburg $18,522.50 in 10 years.

Five other bids were opened at last night's council session. They came from A. E. Masten and Company, Pittsburgh; John C. Legg and Company, Baltimore; Fidelity Bank of Frostburg; Baker, Watts and Company, Baltimore; and Stein Brothers and Boyce, Baltimore.

Improvements to the water lines scheduled this fall will see 11,560 feet of new eight-inch water mains laid from the west end of Frostburg to the east city limits. New lines are expected to eliminate dirty water existing in some parts of the town, give better pressure, and increase fire protection and will take care of future expansion, including the college.

Bids for the water line will be opened Friday.

Water rates in Frostburg will be increased effective October 1 to provide the needed funds to retire the bond issue.

The base rate for the city since 1951 has been 50 cents per 1000 gallons of water or a minimum of 9000 gallons in three months, making the quarterly minimum $4.50.

The new rate will be 60 cents per 1000 gallons with a minimum being figured on 9000 gallons per quarter or $4.80.

Rates outside the city limits of Frostburg will be raised from 75 cents per 1000 gallons to 85 cents per thousand. The minimum per quarter will remain at 9000 gallons or $7.65.

Urban Renewal Unit To Visit Planning Firm

The Cumberland Urban Renewal Agency last night continued its discussions on the selection of a consulting firm to provide planning services in connection with proposed urban renewal projects here.

The discussion involved the qualifications of several firms which are being considered and attempts to appraise the firms on the basis of the facilities.

For some weeks, the agency has been studying the applicants in an attempt to find the best possible solution to the problem of securing professional planning services.

Several members of the agency will go to Washington Friday to meet the staff of Stein and Marcou Associates, the firm which is engaged in preparing a comprehensive plan for the City of Cumberland.

A similar meeting was held recently with a Pittsburgh planning firm.

Last night's meeting was held in the CURA office with Marion T. Powers, chairman, presiding. Attending were all members of the agency, along with Mayor Earl D. Chaney.

The agency is anxious to select its planning consultants so it will be ready to move as soon as applications submitted to the Urban Renewal Administration are approved.

Service Set For Victim Of Auto Accident

Keyser Woman Dies Of Injuries

A requiem mass will be celebrated tomorrow at 10 a. m. at the Church of the Assumption in Keyser, for Mrs. Catherine M. Peacock, 75, of 113 C Street, Keyser, who was fatally injured in a two-car accident Sunday on State Route 135 in McCoole.

Burial will be in Philo Cemetery, Westernport. The body is at the Rogers Funeral Home, Keyser, where the rosary will be recited today at 8 p. m.

Mrs. Peacock was admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital in Keyser, following the accident, but died yesterday morning of internal and head injuries.

Tfc. Willis E. Foreman said Mrs. Peacock was a passenger in a car operated by her daughter, Mrs. Winnie P. Herbert, 51, also of Keyser. Police said the Herbert car was collided on a sharp curve with a car operated by William L. Zais Jr., 17, of McCoole.

State Police said Zais, who was driving eastbound, failed to keep to the right of the center of the highway on the curve and struck the left side of the oncoming Herbert vehicle.

A native of Scotland, Mrs. Peacock was a daughter of the late John and Bridget Maguire. Her husband, Frank Peacock, preceded her in death.

She was a member of the Catholic Church of Assumption of Keyser and had resided in Keyser the past 14 years.

Besides her daughter, she is survived by another daughter, Mrs. Christine Davis, Piedmont, and a grandchild.

Hugh McMullen Will Address Advisory Unit

Hugh A. McMullen, city solicitor, will speak at a meeting of the Mayor's Citizens Advisory Committee today at 7 p. m. in City Hall.

He will brief the committee on the city's home rule law, explain the procedure for issuing bonds, the legal aspect of urban renewal and discuss the city's parks and playgrounds.

Harry Kauffman, chairman, will preside at the session. Members are Dr. Wayne W. Hill, Marcus A. Naughton, Rev. John F. Sammel, Irwin Pariser, C. E. Bramble, Arch M. Hutcheson, Charles K. Waterman and James W. Webster Jr.

The committee was appointed early this year by Mayor Earl D. Chaney in connection with the city's urban renewal program.

It is a contact group between the public and urban renewal agency.

A native of Butler, Pa., Mr. Gray is a graduate in electrical engineering from Grove City (Pa.) College.

Red Cross Issues 700 Swim Cards

Adds Two Water Safety Programs

Nearly 700 swimming certificates in nine categories were awarded during some 80 swimming classes conducted during the Allegheny County Chapter, American Red Cross, summer water safety program.

The classes were taught by 21 qualified Red Cross instructors at six county pools and at Girl Scout Camp Tioga and Boy Scout Camp Potomac.

The local chapter also added a swim and stay fit program to its water safety services this year and for the first time a boating safety course was sponsored in the county by the chapter.

In May the chapter conducted an instructors course with eight persons being certified as qualified Red Cross swim instructors. They were taught by Lawrence S. Brehm, veteran Red Cross instructor, and Harrison (Chuck) Dial, from area headquarters.

The year round swim and stay fit program under the direction of Lawrence S. Brehm had 106 persons enrolled at participating pools, including Constitution Park, Celanese, Mink's, Cumberland Country Club, Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club and Frostburg. The program in which swimmers endeavor to swim 50 miles in 10, 20, 30, 40, and 50 segments, shows two persons completing the 50 miles, Miss Henrietta Lippold, and Mr. Brehm, and a third, Mrs. George Ossip, close to her goal with a total of 48 and three-quarters miles swum so far.

Robert E. Pence, water safety chairman of the chapter, also instructed classes held during the summer for the county's elementary school children.

For the first time this year the Cumberland Recreation Department co-sponsored with the chapter, classes for adults in beginner and advanced beginner categories. This was in addition to the annual playground swimming program in which 314 children from the city's 14 playgrounds were enrolled.

Six persons completed the boating instructor's course and seven others a course in basic boating skills taught by Mr. Brehm and Mr. Dial, water safety representative from Alexandria, Va.

Because of the unavailability of an indoor pool for its water safety program, the local chapter conducts only a summer swimming program, Mrs. Sara G. Lindsay, executive secretary, pointed out yesterday.

Instructors for the swimming program included Mr. Pence, Mr. Brehm, Daniel Carlomany, John Baer, Beverly Stimmel, Judy Briner, Eileen Llewellyn, Ina Donius, Martha M. Strickland, Lonnie R. Jackson, Kay Ella Beeman, John T. Morris, George H. Stachan, Robert Shook, Alan Stockholm, David Short, Mary T. Davis, Karen Holbrook, Wayne Lee Lewis, John Milbrada, Mrs. Helen McGuire and Eddie Douglas, water safety aide. Also assisting were qualified Red Cross life guards at the county pools.

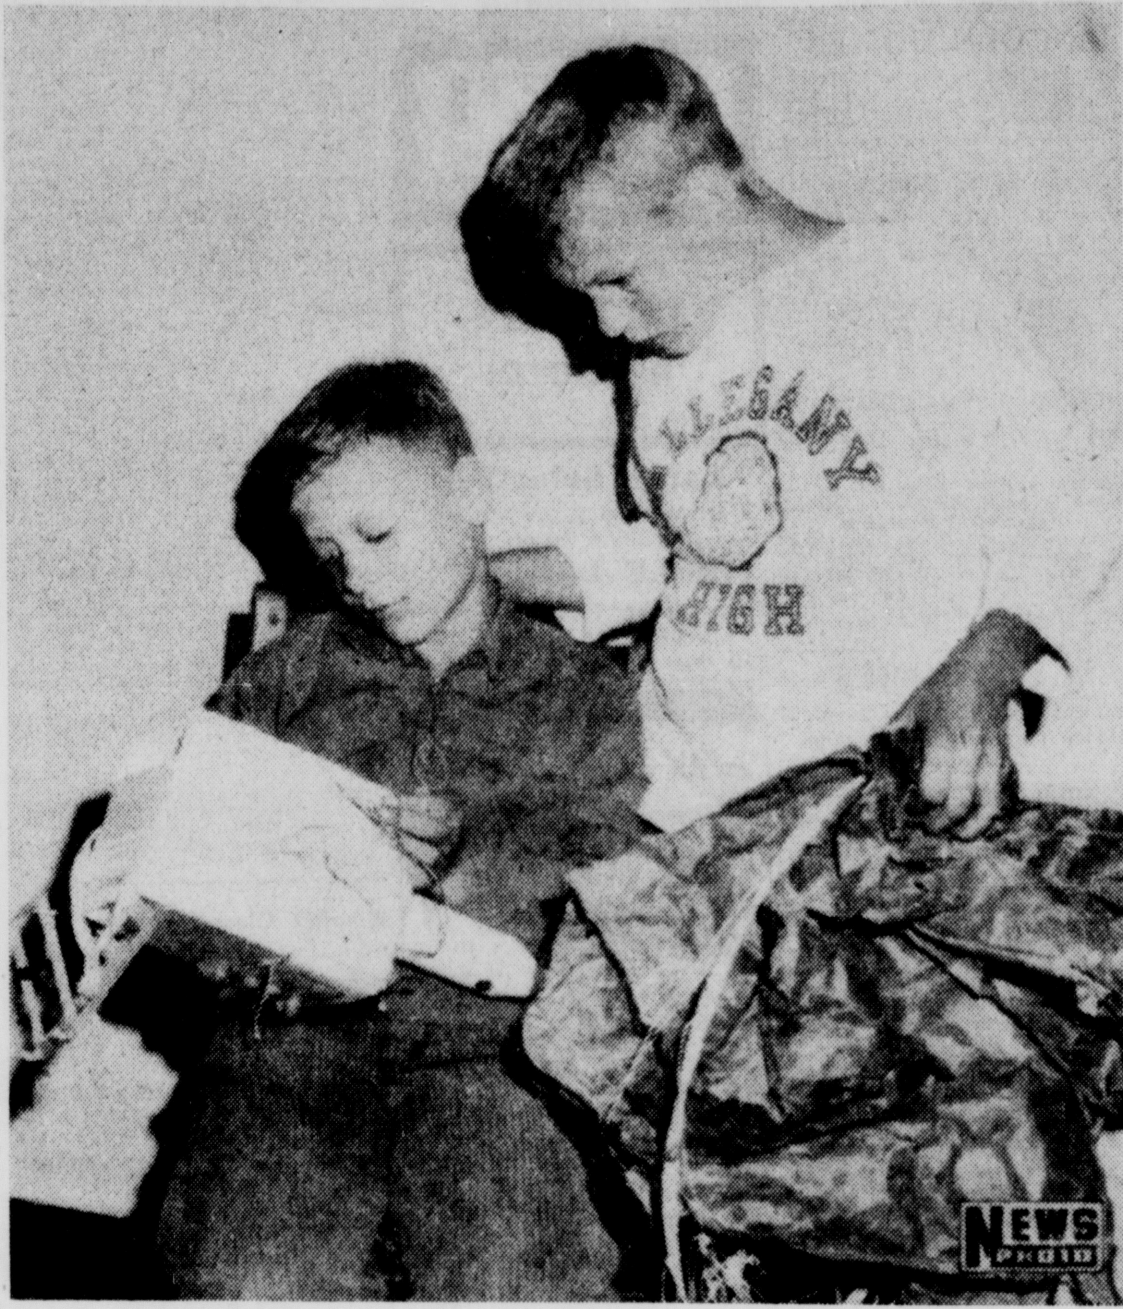

Classes included pre-beginner, beginner, advanced beginner, intermediate, junior and senior life saving and water safety aide.

Fire Extinguished In Westernport

Firemen from Potomac Fire Company No. 2 in Westernport, and Tri-Towns Fire Company in Piedmont, last night extinguished a brush fire on Walnut Street Extended in Westernport.

Chief Paul Michael of the Westernport company, said the fire was burning about 75 feet from the home of Mrs. Charles Welsh, but the residence was not in danger from the blaze.

The alarm was received about 8:30 p. m. and firemen were at the scene about 20 minutes.

Boys Make Discovery

These two LaVale boys, who had yesterday afternoon off from school, had a rather adventurous time later in the day in nearby Hampshire County, W. Va. They found a radio belonging to the U. S. Weather Bureau. Seated and holding the instrument is Danny Ludwick, 11. Standing beside him is Mike Lucas, 13, holding the torn parachute which carried the instrument. Instructions printed on the device explain that it should be returned to the Weather Bureau so it can be used again. They made their find on the farm of Danny's grandfather, C. W. Ludwick, near the intersection of U. S. Routes 50 and 220 at Junction. It was the first time the older boy had visited a farm. They plan to turn over the radio to their mail carrier in LaVale today.

Mineral, Preston Voters Will Act On School Levies

Neighboring Mineral and Preston countians are among 22 in West Virginia where the voters will be asked to renew special school levies between now and next June 30.

At stake in the 22 West Virginia counties is an annual yield of $15,074,773 in levy money, representing an average annual expenditure of $57 per pupil. The 22 levies, more than half of the 39 levies now in effect in the state, bring in more than two-thirds of the annual yield of all 39 levies, which is $22,412,625.

The Mineral County levy of $50 per pupil amounts to $263,291 in a county with a school enrollment of 5,214 pupils. In Preston County the levy is $30 per pupil. That brings in $208,489 a year in a county where the enrollment adds up to 6,697 pupils.

Special school levy money is the money brought in by additional property taxes approved by a 60 per cent vote of the people, as required by the state constitution. The 22 renewals will mean no school tax increases but simply a continuation of existing taxes.

Even with 39 counties having special school levies to supplement regular tax yields and state allocations, West Virginia still ranks 43rd in the average amount of $297.50 per pupil.

Three Taken To Hospital After Crash

Three persons who were injured during the past two days in two separate auto accidents were reported in "good" condition last night in Memorial Hospital.

Louis L. Littlefield, 74, of Flintstone, was admitted yesterday morning following a two-car accident about five miles east of Cumberland on U. S. Route 40.

In the other accident, a two-car headon collision, Mrs. Hilda Valentine, 52, of RD 1, Flintstone, and Floyd Redinger, 26, Star Route, Everett, Pa., were admitted to the local hospital.

Pennsylvania state police said the crash occurred on the Black Valley Road just south of Everett on Sunday morning.

Maryland state police said Littlefield was headed west on Route 40 and his car was struck on the right side by Donald R. Miller Jr., 23, of RD 2, Williamsport, as Littlefield was making a left turn from the westbound lane.

Police said Miller observed Littlefield making the left turn although a large mound in the center of the medial zone of the highway prevented Littlefield from seeing the other car.

Tfc. R. E. Alderton investigated the accident at 9:15 a.m.

Murder Trial Resumes Today In Romney

Capital Punishment Is Waived By State

L. L. Thompson, prosecuting attorney of Hampshire County, W. Va., said last night that the state has waived capital punishment in a murder case which opened yesterday morning in Circuit Court at Romney.

A 14-year-old Hampshire County boy is on trial for the murder in the July 10 fatal shooting of Eugene C. Whetzel, 25, of Hoy.

By 5 p. m. yesterday the state completed its case after about eight witnesses including state police took the stand. The trial, said Mr. Thompson, will resume today at 9 a. m.

The jury is predominately male and the case is being heard by Judge H. G. Muntzing. The defense attorney, William Loy, will open the defense's case this morning.

The fatal shooting occurred in a remote section of Hampshire County in the vicinity of a "gypsy camp" near Hoy, authorities said.

The boy's uncle, Galen Harding of Hoy will be tried on Wednesday on a charge of aiding and abetting in the fatal shooting.

A special session of the grand jury for the July term of Circuit Court indicted the man and his nephew.

Under questioning, Harding and his nephew admitted to firing a small calibre rifle in the direction of Whetzel, but each denied he knew the man was wounded when they left the scene of a verbal altercation amongst the three.

State police at Romney were alerted to the slaying by a phone call from an unidentified person. Authorities said there was a history of "difficulty" between the slain man and Harding.

Man Is Held For Probe

A 27-year-old local man is being held in the city jail for the Detective Bureau in connection with an investigation into the breaking and entering of a local firm and the theft of two automobiles.

He was arrested yesterday by Detective Capt. James E. Van and Detective Harry Iser and was booked as Carl Junior Ruse, 216½ Knox Street.

The arrest followed a report from Marshall Twell, of the Knox Street Motors, 105 Knox Street on September 13, that an intruder broke a large pane of glass on the Hay Street side of the building and took about $1.50 in pennies from the office. Also missing was a set of keys for a 1960 car parked outside the building.

Capt. Van said Ruse had admitted taking two cars but did not remember breaking into the garage.

He said the man took the keys, and a set of tags from a car inside the garage, and then drove the Twell car around town.

Capt. Van said Ruse also admitted taking the car of Paul Sullivan, 255 North Centre Street, on September 19 from North Centre Street and driving it to Jefferson, Pa., before returning it here.

The lowest reading in the area yesterday was recorded at Town Hill where the mercury dropped to 27 degrees. Oakland also reported a reading on 27, while LaVale had a 30.

Autumn officially began at 2:24 p. m. yesterday, and the cool weather is expected to continue through tomorrow when a slight warming trend is forecast.

Boys Make Discovery

These two LaVale boys, who had yesterday afternoon off from school, had a rather adventurous time later in the day in nearby Hampshire County, W. Va. They found a radioisotope belonging to the U. S. Weather Bureau. Seated and holding the instrument is Danny Ludwick, 11. Standing beside him is Mike Lucas, 13, holding the torn parachute which carried the instrument. Instructions printed on the device explain that it should be returned to the Weather Bureau so it can be used again. They made their find on the farm of Danny's grandfather, C. W. Ludwick, near the intersection of U. S. Routes 50 and 220 at Junction. It was the first time the older boy had visited a farm. They plan to turn over the radioisotope to their mail carrier in LaVale today.

Mineral, Preston Voters Will Act On School Levies

Neighboring Mineral and Preston countians are among 22 in West Virginia where the voters will be asked to renew special school levies between now and next June 30.

At stake in the 22 West Virginia counties is an annual yield of $15,074,773 in levy money, representing an average annual expenditure of $7 per pupil. The 22 levies, more than half of the 39 levies now in effect in the state, bring in more than two-thirds of the annual yield of all 39 levies, which is $22,412,625.

The Mineral County levy of $50 per pupil amounts to $263,291 in a county with a school enrollment of 5,214 pupils. In Preston County the levy is $30 per pupil. That brings in $206,489 a year in a county where the enrollment adds up to 6,697 pupils.

Special school levy money is the money brought in by additional property taxes approved by a 60 per cent vote of the people, as required by the state constitution. The 22 renewals will mean no school tax increases but simply a continuation of existing taxes.

Even with 39 counties having special regular tax levies to supplement regular tax levies and state allocations, West Virginia still ranks 43rd in the average amount of $297.50 per pupil.

Three Taken To Hospital After Crash

Three persons who were injured during the past two days in two separate auto accidents were reported in "good" condition last night in Memorial Hospital.

Louis L. Littlefield, 74, of Flintstone, was admitted yesterday morning following a two-car accident about five miles east of Cumberland on U. S. Route 40.

In the other accident, a two-car headon collision, Mrs. Hilda Valentine, 52, of RD 1, Flintstone, and Floyd Redinger, 26, Star Route, Everett, Pa., were admitted to the local hospital.

Pennsylvania state police said the crash occurred on the Black Valley Road just south of Everett on Sunday morning.

Maryland state police said Littlefield was headed west on Route 40 and his car was struck on the right side by Donald R. Miller Jr., 23, of RD 2, Williamsport, as Littlefield was making a left turn from the westbound lane.

Police said Miller observed Littlefield making the left turn although a large mound in the center of the medial zone of the highway prevented Littlefield from seeing the other car.

Tfc. R. E. Alderton investigated the accident at 9:15 a. m.

Murder Trial Resumes Today In Romney

Capital Punishment Is Waived By State

L. L. Thompson, prosecuting attorney of Hampshire County, W. Va., said last night that the state has waived capital punishment in a murder case which opened yesterday morning in Circuit Court at Romney.

A 14-year-old Hampshire County boy is on trial for the murder in the July 10 fatal shooting of Eugene C. Whetzel, 25, of Hoy.

By 5 p. m. yesterday the state completed its case after about eight witnesses including state police took the stand. The trial, said Mr. Thompson, will resume today at 9 a. m.

The jury is predominantly male and the case is being heard by Judge H. G. Muntzing. The defense attorney, William Loy, will open the defense's case this morning.

The fatal shooting occurred in a remote section of Hampshire County in the vicinity of a "gypsy camp" near Hoy, authorities said.

The boy's uncle, Galen Harding of Hoy will be tried on Wednesday on a charge of aiding and abetting in the fatal shooting.

A special session of the grand jury for the July term of Circuit Court indicted the man and his nephew.

Under questioning, Harding and his nephew admitted to firing a small calibre rifle in the direction of Whetzel, but each denied he knew the man was wounded when they left the scene of a verbal altercation amongst the three.

State police at Romney were alerted to the slaying by a phone call from an unidentified person. Authorities said there was a history of "difficulty" between the slain man and Harding.

Man Is Held For Probe

A 27-year-old local man is being held in the city jail for the Detective Bureau in connection with an investigation into the breaking and entering of a local firm and the theft of two automobiles.

He was arrested yesterday by Detective Capt. James E. Van and Detective Harry Iser and was booked as Carl Junior Ruse, 216½ Knox Street.

The arrest followed a report from Marshall Twell, of the Knox Street Motors, 105 Knox Street on September 13, that an intruder broke a large pane of glass on the Hay Street side of the building and took about $1.50 in pennies from the office. Also missing was a set of keys for a 1960 car parked outside the building.

Capt. Van said Ruse had admitted taking two cars but did not remember breaking into the garage.

He said the man took the keys, and a set of tags from a car inside the garage, and then drove the Twell car around town.

Capt. Van said Ruse also admitted taking the car of Paul Sullivan, 255 North Centre Street, on September 19 from North Centre Street and driving it to Jefferson, Pa., before returning it here.
